

Soviet Fliers Grounded At Vancouver Following 5,300-Mile Hop via Pole

Airmen Land Only 592
Miles from Oakland, Calif.— Flight Was Veritable Miracle of Navigation.

LOW CEILING
Airmen Astounded by Public Acclaim—Land Unannounced
at Lonely Army Post.

(By The Associated Press)
Vancouver, Wash., June 21.—
The trans-polar flight that carried three Russian airmen over the top of the world from Moscow opened a new air line to tomorrow's promise commerce, the daring trio said today as they rested here at the end of their epochal adventure.

Only 592 miles short of their goal at Oakland, Calif., the fliers set their huge-winged monoplane down here at 8:22 a. m. yesterday (11:22 a. m., eastern standard time) after 63 hours and 17 minutes of hazardous flight from the other side of the earth. They took off from Moscow at 8:05 p. m., from standard time Thursday
and flew 6,000 miles between them and their objective, a large part of it over impossible landing territory that no white man had ever seen before. Their actual flight was about 5,300 miles.

Victors over serious weather difficulties above the barren polar regions, and over nightmarish navigating conditions where meridians of longitude converge and compasses lie, they were greeted with full triumph by low visibility
after reaching comparative safety.

Obviously worn from their ordeal but reporting themselves in good condition, the three men rose
after a few hours sleep to participate last night in a celebration
honoring the Russian aviators.
Ambassador Alexander Troyanov-sky, acting as interpreter. Earlier the ambassador had said the flight proved the feasibility of trans-
polar commercial flying.

Soldiers Amazed
The only witnesses to the end of one of the most hazardous flights in history were some amazed soldiers of the army post
here and three University R. O.
T. C. students.

The men who made the first trans-polar flight from Russia to the United States were Valeri Chkalov, pilot who did not once relinquish the controls in more than two-and-one-half days of flying; George Baidukov, co-pilot, and Alexander Belyakov, whose navigation in a wilderness of North Pole magnetic interferences brought the ship unerringly to this country.

He stood at the acclaim which greeted them quickly bestowed upon them words of their unscheduled landing spread, the husky Russian birdmen smiled wanly, raved and then hastened to the home of General George Marshall, barracks commander, for breakfast and a very welcome sleep.

When they arose late in the day, they said they would not go on—that the plane would be dismantled here. They added they would fly by chartered plane late today for San Francisco, in company of Ambassador Troyanovsky,
who flew here to greet them.

Problem Is Physical.
In the subsequent radio broadcast in which Ambassador Troyanovsky paraphrased the fliers' remarks, Chkalov revealed that the most trying parts of the flight were in stormy weather over the Bering sea, Franz Josef Land, Prinsep Land and near the North Pole.

But for the weather, the pilot
said he could have made San Francisco, as he had enough gasoline left out of the original 2,000 gallons to fly 750 miles.

Belyakov, in answer to questions of the ambassador said in Troyanovsky's words:
"They think that the problem (of a regular air route) is very much physical. They believe that over such a course planes should be equipped to fly high—say 7,000 to 10,000 meters."

They said their flight was made at altitudes ranging from 4,000
to 6,000 meters, and the plane,
not built for speed, averaged 100 miles an hour.

WOULD MAKE MUSEUM OF STEINMETZ RESIDENCE

Schenectady, N. Y., June 21
(AP)—The Schenectady Chamber of Commerce began today a four-day drive to raise $25,000 to turn the home of the late Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz into a public museum.

The home, Philip L. Alger, proved today that eight percent
chairman of the chamber's planning committee, said will be offered to New York State "to be maintained by the state conservation department as a memorial to the wizard."

Steinmetz, known as "the wizard" because of his experiments, died in 1923 after years spent developing some of the outstanding phenomena of the "electrical age."

U.S. Role in Spain's War Inevitable, Red Delegate Says

Valencia, Spain, June 21 (AP)—
A decisive role for the United States in European affairs was pictured as inevitable today by Spain's delegate to the League of Nations because of what he said was French and British weakness before German and Italian "terrorizing."

"Apparently Germany and Italy have succeeded in terrorizing the British and French governments," Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, the league delegate and former foreign minister, declared last night in a bitter comment on the fall of Bilbao to the insurgents.

"In view of the weakness of these democracies, it is inevitable that the United States must—sooner or later—be called on to take the decisive role in European affairs."

France and Britain, he said, had only to insist on the removal of foreign volunteers from the 11-months-old civil war and Germany and Italy would have been compelled to accede.

The two central powers, he charged, used the bombing of the German Cruiser Deutschland and the consequent "scandalous aggression against Almeria" to compel France and England to make concessions to them for their return to the non-intervention patrol and delay withdrawal of volunteers from the war.

"I'm convinced the war would end in less than one month if all foreign volunteers were removed,"
he said.

Rebels Rush Along.
Bilbao, Spain, June 21 (AP)— Improvised footbridges were thrown across the River Nervion today to speed the movement of the main body of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's victorious insurgent army against Santander,
last stronghold of the Basques.

A line of advance guards was pushed out about six miles west of Bilbao, conquered Saturday in a whirlwind climax to a three-month siege.

(Reports from Santander denied that Bilbao had been totally occupied by the insurgents and declared
the Basques were grimly disputing the crossing of the Nervion.)
Thousands of the conquering insurgents poured down from the eastern hills, marched through the captured Basque capital and swarmed into the hills on the western edge of the city.

Madrid reported today Basque troops were concentrated to the west of Bilbao to oppose the advance of the insurgent conquerors
of the northern capital.

Officials here described the retreat as "orderly" and said "the posts previously prepared west of Bilbao" were being occupied by troops while several units of the Basque troops were still operating south
of the city.

The Madrid front was quiet although it was thought the falling of Bilbao might be a signal for the insurgents to turn all their manpower on the capital which has resisted a siege even longer than that which reduced Bilbao.

Soft Coal Code Effective
Washington, June 21 (AP)—A far-reaching code of fair practices
for the 400,000,000-ton soft coal industry became legally effective today, but its actual operation depended on an executive order from President Roosevelt. Officials of the National Bituminous Coal Commission said the President would promulgate the code during the day in compliance with the Guffey-Vinson Act which he approved April 26. It replaces a similar statute invalidated by the Supreme Court.

THEY BLAZE A TRAIL ACROSS THE ARCTIC

Three Soviet fliers, blazing a trail from Moscow to California, crossed the North Pole region and sped down from the top of the world in a daring 6,000-mile flight. The fliers (top), left to right: Valeri Pavlovitch Ohkalov, Georgi Philippovitch Baldukov and Alexander Valsilievitch Belyakov. Below is the plane they were reported flying.

G-Man Swenson in Appearance Here Tells About Crime

"The greatest business in the world today is crime," stated J.
Douglas Swenson, one of the much publicized G-Men, who addressed a fair sized audience at the Reformed Church of the Comforter Hall service sponsored by the Men's Club Sunday evening.

G-Man Swenson spoke in place of Rhea Whiteley, chief of the New York branch of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who is now busy working on the Parson's abduction case.

"There is a major crime committed by one in every 16 members of a home today, and every 24 seconds marks the advent of another case for the F.B.I. Crime is not new because it is found in the first book of the Bible when Cain slew Abel, but today crime is running rampant, and while there is no 'Public Enemy No. 1,'
as an individual, still crime as a whole can be placed under the caption of public enemy."

The speaker then briefly traced
the history of police forces, starting with the first Roman police force which was destroyed by the barbarians. The Boston Night Watch was the first organized force to combat crime in the United States, being established in 1636, but people at that time did not have the need for a very efficient organization because crimes were few and far between in the early colonies. To New York city goes the honor of the first uniformed law enforcement
group which made its appearance in 1844. The old west had its bandits, robbers, and rustlers, but means of transportation were exceptionally slow and the citizens were more than willing to help
the officers apprehend culprits.
Today crime has become a business which preys on the unfortunates, collects dues and taxes of its own, and holds elections at the point of a gun.

Today—A Modernized Freeman Of 8 Column Pages Greet You

Time Marches On—and so does
The Kingston Daily Freeman, coming before its readers today as an eight-column newspaper and keeping in step with the latest developments in the journalistic world.

The late Jay E. Klock took over the reins of The Freeman 46 years ago and guided the newspaper
from a financial failure to a successful enterprise. Mrs. Jay E.
Klock, president of The Freeman Publishing Company, is carrying out his plans with this new improvement to give Kingston and Ulster county a modern newspaper.

From the day 66 years ago when Horatio Fowkes edited the first "Kingston Daily Freeman" down through the years to the present daily edition, The Freeman has been a local institution that has stressed service to the community, and so new and modern improvements pass before the reviewing stand in this continual march of time.

Origin of Freeman
Available records at hand date
the appearance of the name "Fre-man" back to 1845 when Dan. A.
Bradbury and E. S. Wells started
the Rondout Freeman. However, the name was short lived, being changed to the Rondout Courier in 1847 by J. P. Hageman, and published as such until 1868. In 1839, the name "Freeman" was revived by Van Keuren and Gilderessee in a weekly paper at Rondout, and in 1865, Horatio Fowkes acquired the property,
holding possession until 1876
when The Freeman Printing and Publishing Association was organized, consisting of members of the business and editorial departments, secured control for a short period. This association was not

Chautemps Offers Blum Portfolio in New Government

Paris, June 21 (AP)—Camille Chautemps, radical Socialist ex-premier who is attempting to form a new people's front cabinet, today offered a portfolio to Leon Blum, the outgoing Prime Minister.

The Socialist Blum, whose government fell early today, withheld his decision. It was indicated it would be delayed until a meeting of the Socialist National Council tomorrow.

Truckloads of Mobile guards
rumbled through the streets as Chautemps sounded out leaders of various factions, particularly the Socialists. Their participation in the cabinet seemed to depend on agreement on a financial program.

Steel-helmeted troops deployed in front of the Senate to prevent any demonstration against the body that overthrew Socialist Premier Leon Blum and restored the Front Government sessionary by refusing to grant deference powers to deal with the financial crisis.

Acting with significant speed,
President Albert LeBrun summoned the radical Socialist Chautemps to the Elysee Palace
before dawn and designated him
to form a new government.

Chautemps, secretary of state
in the retiring cabinet, immediately began a round of conferences with party leaders to determine what support he could glean for a cabinet probably uniting the same Leftist elements that supported Blum.

Among his first conferees was Joseph Caillaux, head of the Senate finance committee who led the fight against Blum's decree demands, from whom he apparently sought to determine if there is a possibility of a new cabinet opposing the decree powers to deal with a rapidly emptying treasury.

Chautemps said his visit to Caillaux would not "surprise anybody after what happened last

Pope To Oppose
Vatican City, June 21 (AP)— Vatican sources said today they expected Pope Pius XI to oppose
"with all his power" the closing of Catholic confessional schools in Germany.

They declared the German government was proceeding steadily
with a plan of replacing clerical teachers with laymen in spite of its concordat with the Vatican.

Brown To Die in Chair For Killing Junkman; Jury Out Half Hour

Charles James Brown will die
in the electric chair, unless a successful appeal is taken.

The negro, convicted Saturday afternoon by a county court jury, which deliberated 27 minutes and cast one ballot, will hear Judge Traver pronounce sentence Tuesday.

And, because the jury recommended no leniency, the court will intone the death penalty for the killer of Isidore Handelman, on April 8, whose words when taken into the Ulster county jail by Sheriff Molyneux, "Let me burn, boss. Give me the hot seat and get it over."

The verdict, arrived at after one ballot, is believed to set a record for any murder case jury in Ulster county.

The morning session was taken up with the summations by Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, who with Robert G. Groves had been assigned by the court to defend the negro, and that of District Attorney Cleon D. Murray.
After the testimony had been reviewed by counsel a recess was taken for lunch.

Charges Jury.
At the resumption of court Judge Traver charged the jury as to the law. He told the jury that one of four verdicts might be rendered in addition to a verdict of acquittal.
A verdict of guilty to murder
first degree, murder second degree, manslaughter first degree or manslaughter second degree he said
could be returned if the evidence pointed to guilt and if not a verdict of not guilty could be returned.

Alternate Excused.
After District Attorney Murray
stated he had no requests of exceptions to make as to the charge,
Mr. Conway was given an opportunity to make requests and take exceptions and then Jesse Meyer,
the testimony throughout as a regular member of the panel, was excused and the case went to the 12 jurors.

Jury Gives Verdict.
Just 27 minutes later the jury
filed in and gave its verdict, guilty as charged. Motions were made by defense counsel and Judge Traver announced that he would sentence Brown Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. There being no recommendation for leniency the court will pronounce the death penalty.

Tuesday morning any additional motions in the case by defense counsel will be heard.

Born in Georgia.
Brown, born in Georgia and later a resident of Chicago, New York city and later of Ulster county, stands not only convicted of the murder of Isidore Handelman, aged Ellenville junk man,
but is also under indictment for the murder of Mrs. Handelman. It is charged that Brown having had a fight with his girl involving his lack of financial means took a pinion gear from his boarding house on the early morning of April 8 last, went to the Handelman home on Pine street at the foot of the Shawangunk mountains and entered the home of the aged couple, went to their sleeping room and started to rob the aged

Schwenk Answers Criticism Charges Lodged by Maltbie

Taking exception to statements contained in a communication
written by Chairman Milo R.
Maltbie of the State Public Service Commission in which the chairman censured the city of Kingston for any delay there has been in a solution of the Broadway crossing elimination, President John J. Schwenk of the Common Council, to whom the letter from the state chairman was addressed, has addressed a communication to Chairman Maltbie in which Mr. Schwenk states "The attitude of the city of Kingston,
as expressed by its mayor, has never been one of criticism of your commission. The mayor and the officials of the city of Kingston have always endeavored to work harmoniously with your commission in an effort to arrive at a proper solution to this important problem. What the city of Kingston has fought for is a plan that is safe, adequate and convenient and will do the least possible damage to the interests
of the city."

President Schwenk also stated that "Although Scheme B modified was rejected by the Common Council, the mayor, myself and five members of the Common Council are formally on record in favor of this plan."

President Schwenk's communication in full follows:

June 19, 1937
Hon. Milo R. Maltbie,
Chairman, Public Service Comm., Albany, New York
Dear Mr. Commissioner:

Replying to your letter of June 18, in regard to the matter of eliminating the Broadway Grade
Crossing in this city.

While an order was issued by the Public Service Commission on March 14, 1937, or over eight years ago, ordering the New York Central Railroad Company to eliminate the Broadway crossing, and although the Public Service Commission is the only agency which has the power under the law to enforce this order, you apparently are under the misapprehension
that the city administration has criticized your commission for its failure to compel the elimination of the crossing. To my knowledge, no criticism of the Public Service Commission has ever been made by any member of the city administration.

You state in your letter to me that officials of the city of Kingston have failed to either approve a plan, as prepared by the railroad, or submit a plan of its own.
The record indicates that your statement is not correct.

In the interest of accuracy and
so that the facts may be known,
it might be well to review the various incidents which have occurred affecting the elimination of the Broadway crossing since this administration came into office:

An order to show cause was issued by your commission on February 6, 1937, directed to the New York Central Railroad Company

Ulster Branch of Holland Society Held Annual Dinner on Saturday

The Ulster county branch of the Holland Society of New York
held its annual dinner Saturday evening at the Hotel Stuyvesant with William E. Bruyn presiding.
Approximately 100 men, who could trace their ancestors among the first Dutch settlers in New Amsterdam and the surrounding territory, gathered to listen to the Hon. Henry E. Ackerson, Jr., a past president of the Holland Society and at the present time a member of the board of trustees,
deliver an address on the significance of the Dutch influence on the lives of Americans today.

The dinner consisted of many of the old Dutch dishes, including the famous dish called "hutspot," which seems somewhat similar to stew, and roast native goose with giblet sauce and apple dressing.

Those Present
The seating list included the following names: the Hon. Henry E. Ackerson, Jr., Dr. D. S. Beattie,
Howard Beecher, D. V. Z. Bogert,
Pratt Boice, Ralph H. Breaker,
M. D., Hubert Brink, Francis S.

Organizer for C.I.O. Says Strike Will Be Called without Ad- vance Notice—No Clubs, Arms for Pickets.

MEDIATORS MEET

Republic Says It Will Reopen
Mill Tuesday, Youngstown Likewise—2 Killed.

Warren, O., June 21 (AP)—The threat of a general strike, involving between 10,000 and 15-000 members of organized labor, rumored ominously in strike-torn Warren today as Judge Lynn B.
Griffith granted the Republic
Steel Corp. an injunction restrain-ing the activities of strike pickets.

John McKeown, C.I.O. organizer, announced:
"If a general strike is called,
it will be done quickly and without advance notice."

Other labor leaders freely discussed the possibility of a general strike in retaliation for the court injunction order.

Judge Griffith read his order before a courtroom crowded with grim, burly steel workers.

Under the injunction issued by Judge Griffith pickets were restrained permanently from arming themselves with clubs or other weapons, obstructing streets or highways in the county, interfering with any persons in the county, intimidating by threats of violence any persons from entering the employ of the Republic Steel Corp., interfering with movement of freight trains
or trucks, or damaging property of the steel company.

Judge Griffith limited to 12
the number of pickets who may be stationed at one time at the main gate of the Niles plant, and eight at the main gate at Warren, with 62 as the limit for six entrances at Warren.

The court also enjoined the steel company from throwing objects at the strikers at any time or place, from threatening violence against the strikers, and from making assaults against the strikers or their families.

The company was ordered not to move freight trains or trucks into or out of their plants until Wednesday at 6 a. m.

The court order regarding pickets says that it may be amended when necessity is made to appear.

Will Attempt to Reopen.
By The Associated Press
Cleveland, June 21.—Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, announced today that he would attempt to re-open the three strike-bound sheet and tube plants in the embroiled Youngstown area at 7
a. m. tomorrow.

Steel Corporation announced it

Strikes Make It Hard to Judge Business Today

The continuance of the steel strike in half a dozen states has made it increasingly difficult to judge the actual condition of business or to venture an opinion as to the immediate future. Factors to be considered are the relative importance of the labor struggle, a continued tendency toward lower ground on the part of several commodities and a recession, more or less seasonal in some of the basic industries. The outlook for the harvests is seen as the most promising indication of a fall upturn, allowing that peace returns to the labor field and there is comparatively little political interference with the normal course of business.

It was apparent during the past week that public authorities were beginning to realize their responsibility in respect to conditions in the strike-infested areas, but there seems to be widespread doubt whether action has not been too long delayed in attempting to restore public order and check further illegal activities. The week closed with martial law proclaimed in one Pennsylvania county and the closing by the state government of mills where it is asserted a large proportion of employees are anxious to remain at work.

The appointment by the Government of a special mediation board for the steel industry is viewed by one observer as proof that the National Labor Relations Act has proved to be useless, or worse than useless, in a pinch.

The automobile industry continues to experience labor troubles of varying intensity, despite temporary agreements with the CIO and it is stated that more than 100 local stoppages of production have been expected since agreements were made. Fresh demands in respect to wages and hours are now being made upon it.

There are signs that around some hope that Congress is beginning to realize, at least to some extent, the necessity of bringing governmental expenditures under control.

The gold question still remains a factor in the business situation. The Treasury's "inactive" gold fund has now passed the billion dollar mark—not so long ago placed as the point where it might cause the Administration some concern. "Abroad," according to one commentator, "nervously doubt exists that shall maintain an unlimited market at $35 an ounce indefinitely and the doubt is held responsible for much of the weakness in world commodities."

After selling off early in the week, stocks rallied Friday on announcement of the appointment of the steel mediation board. They closed Saturday generally a little under the previous week's final quotations.

The first eight railroads reporting for May, representing 13 per cent of the gross industry, show net operating income of $7,661,000—off 12 1/2 per cent from a year ago.

National banks will not be allowed to write up to pay any security—even government bonds—which they bought at a discount. Comptroller of the Currency O'Connor warned a convention of the Colorado Bankers Association.

ABOUT AUTO INSURANCE

New York, June 21 (AP)—Steel shares held modest gains in a quiet and irregularly lower stock market today.

Comparative steadiness in the steel operating rate and word independent companies will resume operations at some plants tomorrow gave steel a boost of fractions to around a point, but the rest of the list slumped about as much.

Trading dwindled to the lowest point in several weeks as traders awaited outcome of the meeting of the Federal Mediation Board with strike leaders and employers.

Transactions ran at the rate of about 500,000 shares for the full session.

Share gainers were Republic Steel, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Deere, Case, Western Union, Electric Power & Light, Kennecott, American Smelting, General Electric, Du Pont, Southern Pacific and American Steel Foundries.

Lacking support were General Motors & Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, International Nickel, Allied Chemical, Chesapeake & Ohio, Santa Fe, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Northern Pacific.

Wheat jumped the allowed limit of 5 cents a bushel for some deliveries on adverse weather reports. Corn was strong. Cotton gained. The French franc and pound sterling rose. Bonds were irregular.

AL'S HOMESICK WILL RETURN AFTER VISITING IRELAND

London, June 21 (AP)—Al Smith, two months away from his beloved New York, thumbed through letters from his grandchildren today and admitted he was homesick.

The cigar-smoking Democrat, on his first European trip, said he was counting the days until he felt New York sidewalks beneath his feet again.

In his suitcase was his famous brown derby, bound, he remarked, "for some Irish museum."

Smith said he would visit Irish Free State President Eamon De Valera before leaving from Cobh aboard the Manhattan August 3.

Two Rare Books

London, June 21 (AP)—Two Philadelphia booksellers bought two of the world's rarest books at Sotheby's today. A volume of the famous Gutenberg Bible was sold to Philip Rosenberg for $8,000 (approximately $40,000).

Gabriel Wells purchased a first folio Shakespeare from the Clumber Library for $5,600 (approximately $28,000). Rosenberg also bought a Boccaccio vellum of 1494 for $1,800 (approximately $9,000).

Jailed for Vagrancy

Edward Brady, 40, of Cortland, William Lucas, 29, of Guttenberg, N. J., and Joseph Katkins, 33, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., arrested by Saugerties police on charges of vagrancy, were given five days each in the county jail when arraigned before Justice Charles E. Bennett.

Van Deusen Goes To Shrine Conclave

Fred L. Van Deusen, president of the Kingston Shriners' Association, left Sunday morning for Detroit where he will act as representative for Cyprus Temple of Albany at the Shriners' Imperial Council sessions to be held in Detroit Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

Mr. Van Deusen will go by train to Buffalo and then by boat down Lake Erie to Detroit.

The Shriners are planning on making this convention the biggest gathering of Shriners ever held and Shriners from all parts of the United States and Canada will attend.

FORMER SOUTH CAROLINA GOVERNOR VISITS HERE

H. R. St. John, who some 15 or more years ago was a resident of South Carolina, where he was engaged in business for several years, this morning noticed a car with a South Carolina license parked along the street. Still interested in the one time "old home town," Mr. St. John queried the chauffeur and discovered that the car was from Spartanburg, S. C., and had brought Mrs. John Gary Evans, wife of former Governor Evans of South Carolina, to Kingston on a business matter.

The Governor and Mrs. Evans are spending some time at Tannersville, Greene county. Mr. Evans served two terms as governor of his state, holding the position at the time Mr. St. John was a resident there—and according to the latter was "a good governor." At present he is a prominent attorney in Spartanburg.

Presbyterians Held Children's Day

Monday morning the annual Children's Day exercises of the Presbyterian Church of the Kingston were held in the church auditorium which had been artistically decorated with flowers which had been donated by the children. The members of the Service Club of the church as usual had charge of the annual event. The program this year was exceptionally interesting and every number was given by the young pupils of the school.

The Children's Day music this year was finely sung by the school. The choir of the church also had a part in the musical program and under the direction of Mr. Harry C. Smith sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Mozart. A duet, "Love All Love Excelling", was excellently sung by Miss Dorothea Jones and John McCullough. Miss Anna Van Deusen delightfully sang as a solo an "Old Irish Air", accompanied on the organ by Mr. Smith.

The delightful program opened with a dramatization, "Children of Galilee", which depicted a scene laid in the time of Christ, and on a hillside overlooking the Sea of Galilee some months before Jesus was arrested. Robert Van Deusen portrayed the part of Joseph, a son of one of the Disciples of Jesus, and rendered his part in a manner to reflect credit upon himself and upon the Rev. James H. Armstrong, Jr., who had coached the young folks in the play. In fact every member of the cast did exceptionally well.

The others who vividly portrayed the parts assigned them were Joseph Banks, George Wolf, Joseph Banks, Henry Peyer, Amy Palmer, Mary Darling, Robert Simpkins and Harold Wells. Martin Glass and James McCrehan recited "Jesus Loved the Country" and recitations were given by Harold Wells and George Connan.

Jeannette and Vivian Jones, two little visitors to the school, delightfully sang "GIVING". The girls of Miss Anna McCrehan's class sang "Just in the Time of Roses", while Margaret and Marilyn Crane pleasingly sang a duet, "Friends".

Solos were also well sung by little Christopher Fidow, Margaret Lugsale and Deborah Armstrong of the primary department, while Mary Edna McFarland gave "A Welcome on Children's Day". The song sang by the little Ingalsbe girl was "Jesus Loves Me" while little Deborah Armstrong delightfully sang "Back of the Leaf".

An exercise, "The Gardeners", was given by James Armstrong, Joseph Banks, Carl Wells, Chester Dimey, Joseph Clearwater, Franklin Bell, Christopher Fidow and Roland Van Steenburgh. Another pleasing exercise, "The Little Garden", was given by Lois Wolf, Margaret Purcell, Norman Hanson, Ruth Purcell, Marilyn Crane, Evelyn Hart and Beatrice Clearwater.

The closing number, an exercise and song, was given by the following members of the primary department, Leon Gorsline, Shirley Leonard, Donald Wolf, Vincent Peck, Jane Clearwater, Beatrice Coddington, Kenneth Peck, Mildred Clearwater, Phyllis Wolf and Alex Caro.

Irving W. Scott, acting superintendent of the school, presided during the exercises. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Mr. Armstrong, was unable to be present as he was attending the centennial celebration of the Presbyterian Church in New Alexandria, Pa., where he was born and where his father, the Rev. J. Newton Armstrong, was pastor for twelve years. Various sons of the parish, who are now ministers, took part in the anniversary services. Mr. Armstrong preached to the young people of the celebrating church on Sunday afternoon.

SEALED BIDS REQUESTED TO DEMOLISH FIREHOUSE

The board of directors of the Woodstock Fire Company, Inc., has called for sealed bids for the demolition of the frame building in the village known as Firemen's Hall. Sealed bids will be received at the office of the secretary at Firemen's Hall, Woodstock, until June 30, at 2 p. m. eastern standard time when proposals will be opened. The building to be removed is located on the northern side of the state highway in the village and work must be completed by August 1, 1937.

All proposals for this work should be directed to Walter Hattie, secretary of the company, Woodstock.

ARDONIA

Ardonia, June 21.—Mrs. Eugene Paltridge and Mrs. Fred Ackert were callers in Kingston Wednesday.

Mrs. Dedrick Ronk and children were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Every on Wednesday.

Donald Paltridge of the Modena baseball team will pitch for the Democratic Club of the Twilight League, Newburgh, Wednesday evening, June 23.

A strawberry festival was conducted in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church.

The Children's Day program is being arranged by the committee in charge.

Miss Margaret Cook and her pupils enjoyed a picnic at the recreation park in Newburgh on Thursday at the close of the school term.

Mrs. Eugene Paltridge was a caller in Modena Wednesday evening.

RULERS OF "GOAT CASTLE" REFUSE TO LEAVE

Dick Dana (left) and his guardian, Miss Octavia Dockery (right), who once were arrested for questioning in the slaying of a wealthy neighbor, make their pet goats feel at home in the crumbling Natchez, Miss., mansion known as "Goat Castle." They refuse to allow the home to be sold to satisfy the claims of mortgage holders. Even the goats are mortgaged.

swift get-away, and the cosmopolitan population of this country hampers the detection of crime and the apprehension of the criminal.

The G-Man then gave a short account of the Federal Bureau of Investigation which was established because the authority of local law enforcement officers was always confined to certain territory and "all the criminal had to do was to step across into another state and from there he could defy the law."

The United States Bureau of Investigation was established in 1908 to eliminate the territorial jurisdiction of the law, and the name was changed in 1934 to the Federal Bureau of Investigation with John Edgar Hoover as the chief. The present organization has 47 offices located in the principle sections of the country, and in Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and Alaska, and has a force of 625 men with 10 per cent of that number located or working out of the New York city office.

The coverage is so efficient that within four hours after a crime is reported, an F. B. I. man can be in any location in this country. Qualifications for agents include a specified age of 25 to 35 years, graduate of a law school or certified accounting school, two years actual experience in business, an examination which leads to the placing of the name of the applicant on an eligible list from which appointments are made unhindered by political influence.

A complete check is made of the habits of each applicant and he is appointed on the strength of character and past achievements. Then comes a period of 14 weeks intensive training which includes a course in scientific crime detection, and also in the use of the latest types of firearms so that the G-Man will be better equipped with guns and the knowledge of how to use them better than the criminal.

The F. B. I. has a world's record of 94 per cent convictions in all cases, and "these convictions have come because the party was guilty." The special agent pointed out that it was the purpose of the bureau to protect the innocent and convict the guilty, and never was an attempt made to prove an innocent man guilty.

An appropriation of $5,000,000 is set aside for the use of the bureau but last year it saved the taxpayers $35,000,000 which should justify its existence if nothing else would.

The fingerprint department has on file some 7,000,000 prints with 5,000 sets being received daily from local police departments. This system is not new because the Chinese devised a system of fingerprinting makers of notes over 1,000 years ago. This system was rehabilitated by Colonel Henry of Scotland Yard, and his system is the one used by the bureau. Agent Swenson emphatically stated that from the time of birth to death, fingerprints do not change pattern, and efforts by leading criminals such as Dillinger to obliterate their prints by mutilation have been met with failure. The fingerprint department is also a great help in locating missing persons who suffer from amnesia and go wandering about the country with no idea of their identity.

No Perfect Crime

"There is no perfect crime, but some are just tougher than others to break," said Swenson. He commented on the talk of establishing a Scotland Yard in this country, stating that the F. B. I. with its personnel of only 625 as compared with the large force employed by the famous Yard, was doing better work than the older organization.

Quoting a few figures, the G-Man portrayed the extent of crime in the United States with 12,000 murders committed last year, and 500,000 armed criminals loose in society. "The problem of apprehending these blights on society is extremely difficult because the

Schirick Grants Watson Divorce

Justice Harry E. Schirick has granted an interlocutory decree of divorce in an action brought by Freda Watson of Lake Hill against Earle Watson. Herman L. Katz appeared for plaintiff.

Plaintiff, a school teacher, is permitted by the decree to resume her maiden name, Freda Wilber. The decree is interlocutory and shall become final in three months. The parties were married at Willow on July 26, 1924, and have resided in Ulster county since. According to the testimony of William Cohen on May 3, 1937, at Lake Hill he found the defendant, who left his wife in April of 1928, residing with a woman known as Miss O'Brien. It is charged that they have been residing there for some time together. Under the decree the plaintiff may remarry but the defendant is forbidden to marry again.

The highest auto highway in the world is Trail Ridge road, which crosses the continental divide in the Rocky Mountain national park in Colorado. Four miles of the road lie above 12,000 feet elevation. At one point the road passes Long's Peak, which rises to 14,255 feet.

Special Agent Swenson closed with the admonition to fathers to teach their sons that there is no glory in crime, and also suggested that the cooperation of the public with the law enforcement agencies would help greatly to eliminate crime from society.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 21, 1937

IN EIGHT COLUMNS

Marking the biggest change in appearance of this newspaper in over half a century, the Kingston Daily Freeman today joins the ranks of the nation's eight-column newspapers. From the seven 15-column page The Freeman has changed to the modern eight 12-column page, a move designed not only to make the newspaper more attractive but to add substantially to its content. Although the basic standard of this paper has stood for many years, there have been numerous improvements in typography and linotype machine capacity.

The event also marks another forward step in the life of this newspaper, which from small beginnings has grown to be one of the most important papers printed in the Hudson River Valley. The Freeman has a right to feel proud of its latest improvement because it will give better service to its subscribers and advertisers. The number of inches in a page has been increased from 147 to 163.

When Jay E. Klock, late editor and publisher, took over the reins of The Freeman 16 years ago he stressed service to the community, giving to its readers the best in a modern newspaper. Endeavoring to carry out this enterprising spirit, The Freeman makes this change which has been underway for some time, in order to keep in step with the latest developments in the journalistic world.

With this latest improvement Mrs. Jay E. Klock, president of The Freeman Publishing Company, is carrying out a tradition that began over 65 years ago when Horatio Fowkes edited the first "Kingston Daily Freeman". From that far off day until the present time new and modern improvements have come to the subscribers of The Freeman, which now number 9,435. This figure is guaranteed by the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

Credit for the high place The Freeman holds today in the newspaper world is due entirely to the untiring efforts of the late Jay E. Klock. It was always his aim to make The Freeman a guiding influence in this community and to this end he brought the destinies of a small and insignificant paper to the position of an institution to be admired and universally respected.

UNSAFE AND INSANE FOURTH

A city which pioneered in the safe and sane Fourth idea found last year that safety and sanity were still far from attainment. There were eleven arrests in the city for illegal sale, possession and discharge of fireworks. Twenty serious injuries were reported. These things occurred in spite of laws and overwhelming public sentiment against fireworks in children's hands. Does this mean it is impossible to get away from fireworks? Local police in the safe and sane city and its suburbs think not. The answer, some of them say, is "constant publicity as to the hazards."

It might be added that provision of some other form of excitement as a substitute is helpful. Picnics, parades, public games and contests, public fireworks displays at parks or beaches at night, handled only by experts, should cut down the use of fireworks by youngsters and irresponsible adults.

It is hard to say just why people have been backsliding on the safe and sane Fourth in the last few years, risking lockjaw and maiming, and disobeying ordinances, for this questionable indulgence. Perhaps they have forgotten the deaths and fires and other disasters of the old-fashioned Fourth. The situation calls for timely reminders now and prompt preparation for a better celebration.

INDUSTRY BREEDS SPORT

The strong trend to sport in highly industrialized countries like England and the United States was explained ingeniously by Harold Butler, director of international labor organization, at a conference in Geneva. He was explaining the logic of the 40-hour week, which is now finding a surprising amount of support in many countries.

The strongest reason for this change, he argued, is not the need of spreading employment so much as the need of greater leisure and more sport. This comes from "the nervous strain caused by machines on the human organism." This organism, he explains, was "built up over tens of thousands of years to meet conditions in which no human being could move faster than a horse." Now nearly everything moves faster than a horse. And with the accelerated motion is more noise, more complexity and confusion and greater strain. To counteract this we need more play, and the 40-hour week, or something like it, meets the need.

There is certainly a tendency in this direction—to ease strain by play. Mr. Butler's reasoning may account for the special addition of Americans to baseball. It also suggests that along with any rational program for shortening the working week should go an enlargement of sport facilities of all kinds.

INFLAMMATION OF MOUTH

Inflammation of the mouth in adults is usually caused by indigestion, jagged teeth, poorly fitting dental plates, decayed teeth, food that is too hot or too highly seasoned and sometimes by an infection of some kind.

There is redness, swelling and tenderness of the gums, an increased amount of saliva (the mouth digestive juice), pain and bad taste in the mouth. This type lasts a few days, and clears up with ordinary boric solutions and soft mild foods.

However a more severe type of stomatitis is now recognized as a separate disease in itself, and is called Vincent's stomatitis. Drs. G. W. Farrell and W. A. McNichols, a dentist and a physician respectively, in the Journal of the American Medical Association record results obtained in nearly 800 cases (704 in an institution and 90 in private practice).

"There was pain and swelling in the gums, and a bad or fetid odor to the breath. The gums were often covered with a gray substance, which, when removed, produced profuse bleeding. There was sometimes a slight temperature and also at times chills and fever. The saliva or mouth juice was thick andropy. The patient was listless and irritable. In a few cases there were severe complications such as bronchopneumonia and lung abscess; six of the cases died."

Drs. Farrell and McNichols outline the various methods of treatment—ultra-violet rays, chromic acid, acetic acid, and chloroform, aniline dyes, tincture of benzoin and others—but the most brilliant and successful results were obtained by the use of hydrogen peroxide. This is explained by the fact that the Vincent's organisms (the supposed cause of this disease) cannot live in the presence of oxygen (or air).

The hydrogen peroxide was always used at least four times a day, full strength—used as a mouth wash and gargle. The knowledge that hydrogen peroxide is so effective in the treatment of Vincent's stomatitis is gratifying but these research workers say further, "In all cases, and under all types of treatment, in order to get a lasting cure, we feel that thorough cleansing of the mouth and scaling of the teeth and removal of all irritants—jagged teeth, poor fitting plates—is as necessary in the cure of this disease as the medical treatment."

$1,600,000 Fair Building
 New York, June 21 (AP)—A $1,600,000 combined amphitheater and exhibit building will be erected at the world's fair for the state of New York, the fair commission announced yesterday. The state appropriated $2,200,000 for the fair. This included cost of the amphitheater, $250,000 for construction of state exhibits, and $350,000 for maintenance and operation of both building and exhibits during the fair year of 1939. The amphitheater will become a permanent fixture of Flushing Meadows Park after the fair is ended.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NEVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine surprises a desperate young man about to set a forest fire. Ted Gaylor convinces her he is no firebug and that this is his first attempt to get a fire going job and buy food for his mother and sister. Kay offers him a place in her outfit. Tom Runyon, the fire patrol, rides up, and Kay has to use her wits to shield Ted from Runyon's suspicion. Riding home alone, Kay sees smoke, and races on to discover her ranch house and barn hopelessly lost to the flames. Seth Jordan, her faithful foreman, has saved the desk with the insurance papers.

Chapter Five
Come To The Flying Six
 HOW Kay lived through the next few hours she never quite knew. After the arrival of the truck, everything seemed to happen all at once. Babe came home, accompanied by Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, and his daughter Ruth, Babe's chum and inseparable companion. As she was soothing Babe, whose 10-year-old courage was temporarily eclipsed by the enormity of this disaster, Kay suddenly looked up to find Josh Hastings' eyes fixed on her with a peculiar, enigmatic stare. He quickly averted his gaze.

When Babe was finally calmed down, and had gone off with Ruth to inspect the charred ruins from a safe distance, Josh Hastings took Kay's hand in his possessively. "It's a burning shame for you to have this happen, Kay." In spite of the emotional strain she was under, Kay was quick to detect the note of hypocrisy in his tone. She looked up at the florid face and china blue eyes of her nearest neighbor, and it seemed as though his real thoughts were written all over him.

A small whirlwind was giving her an impulsive hug. "Please say 'yes,' Sis!"

He wasn't sorry this had happened! He was glad, because he hoped that now Kay would be forced to do what he had been urging ever since her father died. From the first, he had been determined that Kay should sell out to him, and he had lost no opportunity to discourage her and drive home his point.

Kay's eyes narrowed as she drew her hand away. "It's bad, of course. But I'm insured, so I can build again and carry on."

To her surprise, a gleam of triumph flashed in his eyes. He started to say something, then didn't. "I expected you to say that," he smiled tolerantly. "It's foolish, but this is no time to talk business. You must come and stay with us until you decide what to do."

"Thank you, but I'd better stay here, I think," Kay tried to soften her refusal with a smile, but an ugly look flashed in Hastings' eyes at her answer. It passed so quickly that Kay couldn't be really sure that she had rightly interpreted his expression. When he spoke again, he used the same note of patronizing tolerance.

"Just as you say. But I don't see exactly how you're going to manage," he glanced significantly at the smoldering ruins. "At least, let Babe come back with us for a few weeks. That would suit Ruth and me down to the ground."

Babs Does Some Coaxing
 KAY hesitated. She hated accepting favors from him, but it would certainly be a lot easier to have Babe away just now. Babe's friendship with Ruth put it on a slightly different basis, and yet— "That's awfully good of you," she temporized, "but—"

"What's good of him, Sis?" Kay started, as Babe's voice broke in on her.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the diversions in picking names out of the headlines and recalling amusing legends about them. This is meat and drink to a reporter who must write every day about this island town, and so after attending a party where the game was played I took down a few notes and hurried right back to the typewriter.

Naturally, with Amelia Earhart off on an exciting world-flight her name bobbed up immediately, and it recalled the time she started out on what she hoped would be a quick, non-stop flight from Boston to New York—by fast roadster!

IT WAS late at night and, with traffic at a minimum, she was spinning off the miles at a gratifying rate when out of nowhere a motorcycle cop stuttered up along side her and motioned her to stop. "This is too bad," said Miss Earhart. I was particularly anxious to reach New York before 2 a.m. I suppose I got a ticket."

"You'll have to come with me," explained the cop sympathetically. "Good gracious, are you going to take me to jail, your car around and follow me," directed the trooper. Chagrined, Miss Earhart complied, and presently the convoy drew up at a house on a side road near the main highway. The cop pounded on the door crying, "Sally, come down here."

TWO minutes later an excited woman with a shawl over her negligee came out on the porch, her eyes popping with pleasure. The cop turned to his prisoner and saluted smartly. "Miss Earhart," he said, "I want to introduce you to my wife. She has a celebrity complex, and everyone I catch speeding I have to bring here so she can meet them. You'd be surprised how many famous people my wife has met."

Whereupon the fier assured Sally that she was happy to make her acquaintance and she graciously gave her her autograph. "Now," cried the trooper, bursting with satisfaction, "it's just 20 minutes of 2 a.m., and I'm going to get you to New York on time. Follow me."

He got on his motorcycle and lit out down the road, lickety-split, with Miss Earhart right behind him. They roared through villages and commanded the right of way until at last Manhattan was reached.

"And don't I get a ticket, officer?"

"Not you, Miss Earhart," cried the cop gallantly. "It's a pleasure to be of service to a lady."

Birds With Mustaches
 BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
 "OH, THERE go the flickers with their mustaches!" exclaimed Willy Nilly.

"I thought you were pointing out some birds to us," barked Rip. "I am," smiled Willy Nilly. "Flickers are birds and they have mustaches. At least, I should say that the Mr. Flicker has black marks by their beaks that look very much like mustaches. They have cousins, too, known as the red-shafted flickers who have red mustaches."

"They're whistling gaily. I suppose because they know that soon at least eight or ten eggs will hatch into little flickers."

"Don't you think they look something like woodpeckers?" Rip asked, dog agreed. "Oh, the, oh my, there goes a little ruby-throated humming-bird! He's after the honeysuckle bush and will fit about, and then put his long beak into the honeysuckle's sweetness and drink. How quickly he flies!"

"They're brave, too, aren't they?" asked Rip, who had remembered times when it was hard for him to be brave before creatures stronger and bigger than he. The humming-bird was so little. "Yes, admitted Willy Nilly, and then, as they passed an orchard there, saw a kingbird—a fine, big bird with a small patch of orange-colored feathers on his head.

"I'm glad Christopher Columbus isn't around now," Willy Nilly told Rip. "Kingbirds don't like crows and will peck at them. Oh, let's hurry and get on a distance, for Christopher may be returning at any time."

MISS EARHART RESTS, PLANE BEING OVERHAULED
 Bandoeng, Dutch East Indies, June 21 (AP)—Amelia Earhart decided today to take a three day rest and have her plane overhauled before taking off on the next leg of her flight around the world. She landed at Bandoeng at 10:17 a. m. today (10:37 p. m. E. S. T.) after a flight from Singapore over the Java Sea and a part of mountainous Java. Military planes went aloft to lead her to the landing field when she circled for 15 minutes, apparently unable to see airfield markers. After her plane is checked by workmen of the Dutch Air Service, K. L. M., she plans to take off for Darwin, Australia.

Cassidy Refrigerator Plant an Important Factor in Industry

During the time that the Lorillard plant was in existence, Kingston could boast of a first class refrigerator plant which turned out some of the finest refrigeration installations obtainable anywhere. Then along came changing business conditions which brought about the end of this local industrial enterprise, and for a period of years there was no industry to take the place of the old Lorillard concern.

However in December, 1935, J. A. Cassidy, who had been superintendent of the Lorillard plant for 46 years, decided that Kingston could be an ideal location for an up-to-date refrigerator plant turning out only the best quality work, provided somebody started one. With his one son, J. H. Cassidy, who had been in the employ of the Lorillard people for 18 years, as a partner, and a few other men also taking an active interest, J. A. Cassidy established the firm of J. A. Cassidy & Son, Inc., manufacturers of refrigeration units and cabinet work. The location of this firm was in the factory on Stephen street formerly operated as a can opener and utensil manufacturing plant by the Browne Corp.

Today this modern refrigerator plant employs 18 men and has been forced to work seven days per week in order to fill the increasing demands for its product, which is fast gaining recognition as among the best in its line. Mahogany, ash, oak, and soft wood such as spruce, are the principal woods used in the manufacture of the refrigerators, bars, and special projects. Much of the wood used is from Ulster county sources, while other lumber not available here, is shipped here in carload lots. All wood is delivered to the plant in the rough, and is planned and sawed to the required size, according to the specifications of any particular job.

Stainless Steel Used
 The local plant uses more stainless steel than any other concern located between Albany and New York, in the Hudson river valley. This product is received in sheets three feet by eight feet, and is used in the interior of refrigerators and also for covers for ice chests and bar fixtures. One job completed for one of the New York city high schools, contained three tons of stainless steel in its make-up.

The main advantage of the use of stainless steel is that it will not rust and will stand quite a bit of battering, as it is solid composition and not plated as many people have thought. In the metal department of the plant, these sheets of steel are cut and molded into required shape by workmen who have had years of experience in their line. Stainless steel is rather difficult to work with as it requires a special acid in order to solder it, and even then the workman must know that what he is about or his efforts are very apt to be crowned by failure. The old Lorillard plant first introduced the product to this territory for refrigerator use some 12 years ago, and some of the workmen who first experimented with it in the days when it had not reached the point of perfection it has since gained, are now engaged in the Cassidy establishment, cutting out various pieces for special equipment and making finished joints which are excellent in appearance.

Styles Of Joints
 There are three or four accepted styles of making joints but the one preferred by the local plant is the butt method, which means copper is sweated into the joint and fastened by soldering. Some electric welding is used on the metal refrigeration units and most of this work is done for the firm by the Universal Road Machinery plant, located next door.

A special guard for blocked tin coils, which forms a protection against any object used to jam and crush ice in an ice chest, has been formed at the local plant, and all parts necessary for this equipment are made in the metal shop. Copper also is used in various places in the interior of the refrigerated boxes, and is cut from sheets and bent to the specified shape.

Various Contracts
 In fact, the J. A. Cassidy concern is the only organization between New York and Albany which offers a complete line of stainless steel bar equipment, and also is the only plant in this vicinity catering to specialized refrigeration problems. In a little over two years of existence, the Cassidy plant has turned out thousands of dollars worth of finished products, all of the highest type of workmanship and materials. The complete wood-working shop is equipped to shape any designs called for in any set of specifications, and the metal shop with its skilled workmen, is ready to turn out the required metal for any of the projects. All work is inspected thoroughly before it leaves the shop, so that any possible defects may be noted. One refrigerator just completed for one of the New York city high schools, is made with ash wood packed with cork board for insulation purposes, and contains $200 worth of stainless steel worked into the interior. The hardware of this box is of forged brass, chrome plated, with huge locks holding the heavy doors tightly in place. Most of the refrigerators are so constructed that they can be dismantled easily if it is found necessary, due to cramped quarters or small doorways to make them smaller in order to move them into place. Bolts hold these boxes together.

Two "Oyster Boxes"
 Two "oyster boxes" were also completed at the plant at the time the reporter made the tour of inspection. These boxes were made of metal with stainless steel tops, and were of the lift-top variety, with ice chest for packing fish, and a drawer, on roller-bearings, to hold the oysters. This type of box was manufactured by the Lorillard concern under similar principles, but the present construction has been improved greatly through experience gained by users.

Bull Market Work
 The J. A. Cassidy concern will install the necessary refrigeration in the new storage plant for the Matthews' Bull Market, now being built at 100 West 12th street. It is estimated that two carloads of cork board will be used in this installation. When completed, this refrigeration unit will supply storage for the entire system of Bull Markets operated by the John W. Matthews interests.

The local plant has supplied refrigerators and bar fixtures throughout the eastern section of the United States and also in one or two of the southern states. The Governor Clinton Hotel, the Stuyvesant Hotel and the Central Bus terminal are equipped with fixtures bearing the seal of J. A. Cassidy & Son, Inc. The Kingston Hospital has some of the local plant's products installed, and many of the bar and tap rooms of this vicinity have the Cassidy sign on their refrigeration fixtures.

Largest Purchaser
 The greatest customer of the local concern is the American Ice Co., which received over 100 installations of the Cassidy products while the Bell Telephone Co. of Philadelphia, the General Motors Corp. of Kearney, N. J., and the E. I. duPont concern, of Arlington, N. J., are all users of the Kingston product. All of the cafeteria refrigerators installed in the New York city public school system last year, were made in Kingston.

And so Kingston has a refrigerator plant which it looks upon with pride—one that is following in the footsteps of the once famous Lorillard concern.

Orange butter, which has less tang and a less rich flavor than orange marmalade, is reported new on the food market. Soda added to water in which green vegetables are cooked destroys their vitamin values and may affect their natural vegetable flavor.

Cotton goods this year have many useful types of finishes, including pre-shrunk cottons, permanent finishes that assure crispness and those that resist water-spotting and creasing. Timely tips on buying food are given in Cornell bulletin E-236, "Low Cost Food for Health." Single copies may be had free from the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, New York.

"Puffed apples," recently put on the market by certain apple growers, are similar to puffed grains in appearance and can be turned into appetizers in a few minutes or used as a breakfast food. The following law was passed by certain colonies in Colonial days of America: "No person whose estate does not exceed 200 pounds can wear gold or silver laces exceeding in cost two skillings a yard."

Manila is the one city in the world where perishable foods are sold only in central public markets. This custom was started by the public health department to encourage sanitation and to combat epidemics.

MODENA

Modena, June 21—The committee of three, namely Joseph Hasbrouck, DuBols Grumm and Floyd Wells, who were appointed at the regular school meeting conducted in the Modena school on May 4, to investigate tuition rates, for pupils who had completed studies in the grade school, in distant high schools, resulted in the decision that students from this section will be sent to the John Borden High School in Wallkill at the beginning of the fall term. A special meeting at the Modena school was called Tuesday evening by the Board of Trustees, and findings of the committee reported. Students that have been attending high school at New Paltz, where tuition rates are higher than at Wallkill, will make the change at the September session of school.

Emil Rode of Modena was among the class of 1937 graduates of the New Paltz Normal School. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crosswell and daughter, June, of Highland, were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Shultis, Monday evening.

The Misses Mary Ella and Emma Ward spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Burton Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wager and Donald Patridge attended a baseball game in the Recreation Park at Newburgh, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seymour, Miss Marian Palmer and Miss Beatrice Ward accompanied a group of friends to DeWitt Lake Sunday where they enjoyed a picnic lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Clinton of Croton-on-Hudson, visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Coy Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hedges, Mr. and Mrs. Burton War, the Misses Mary Ella and Emma Ward called on Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tenney of Little Britain Sunday afternoon.

Peter Smith has rented the cottage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Denton, who will vacate July 1, to employees of the New York City Water Supply.

Mr. Arthur Coy, Miss Gladys Coy, Miss Marian Palmer, Miss Helen Palmer, Charles Palmer, Mrs. Margaret Carroll and Miss Margaret Carroll, Rutie Ward and Miss Beatrice Ward, were shoppers in Newburgh Saturday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bernard and daughters, Jennie and Dorothy, were shoppers in Newburgh Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Everette Parsons of Kingston was a caller on Miss Glenzie Wager Wednesday afternoon. Beatrice Ward visited her aunt, Miss Emma Palmer, at Ardena, Monday afternoon.

Ideal weather conditions favored the scholars of the sixth and seventh grades of the Modena school on Thursday when they enjoyed a picnic lunch on the Minnewaska Trail section.

Miss Beatrice Ward was among the class of candidates seeking membership in the Plattekill Grange, and to whom the third and fourth degrees of initiation was conferred at the current meeting of the Grange.

Mrs. Jerome LeFevre of New Paltz was in this section last week.

Christian Mathiesen has returned to New York city after spending a few days at his home here.

Private Industry Absorbed 20,693 in Month of May

Albany, June 21.—The New York State Employment Service and the National Reemployment Service recorded 20,693 placements in jobs in private industry during the month of May, according to a report made public today by Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews.

The number of persons obtaining jobs in private industry through the public employment offices in New York state has shown a steady increase in the past few years. Also comparative figures by months between placements made this year and placements made last year show a consistent rise in 1937 over the 1936 figures. The total of 20,693 private industry placements made during May, 1937, is an increase of 7.7 per cent over April, 1937; 21.3 per cent over those made in May, 1936.

The report of the activities of the New York State Employment Service and the National Reemployment Service Offices includes figures for the first five months of the year compared with the first five months of the previous year. The number of placements made in the first five months of 1937, 85,333 jobs in private industry were filled through the public employment offices, which is a 60.3 per cent increase over 53,615 similar jobs during the first five months of 1936.

Mystic Court Honors Officers

Mystic Court, No. 62, held its regular meeting Tuesday, June 15, at the lodge rooms on the Strand. A reception was tendered Honorary Lady Kitty Budington in honor of her appointment as district deputy grand matron of the 29th district. The court was honored with the presence of Sir Knight J. Briggs Shaw, grand royal patron and several other appointed grand officers. Courtesy of the throne were extended to all grand officers and past royal patrons and royal patrons.

Sir Knight Walter Branigan was installed as royal patron for the ensuing year by Grand Royal Patron Briggs Shaw. Speakers of the evening were G. R. P. Shaw, H. L. Kitty Budington, D. D. G. R. M. and S. K. Osborn Wilkens, A. G. L. A degree "Rainbow of Friendship" was presented to the honored guest by 12 officers, expressing their good wishes for the year. Sister Jessie Wolfersinger, entertained with vocal selections and at the close of the degree, sang "There's a Rainbow Round Her Shoulder." Flowers were presented to H. L. Budington and a gift from the court.

Birthday night was then observed with the lighting of a candle by the officers for the R. M. & R. P. of each year since 1916.

Gifts were presented to H. L. Budington from friends. Court closed in short form to resume its business in September. Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

NRS Placed 132 in Ulster Work

The National Reemployment Service in Ulster county placed 132 persons in employment during the month of May, according to an announcement by J. B. Carey, manager of this city, today.

Of these placements, 88 were in private industry and 44 in emergency work, such as WPA. Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews also issued a statement today regarding the activities of the National Reemployment Service and the New York State Employment Service. He made public a report, which showed that 20,693 jobs in private industry were filled through the public employment offices in New York state during the past month.

Holland Society Annual Dinner

Poucher, Dr. J. Wilson Poucher, Willard M. Pringle, Philip T. Schantz, Otto B. Schmidt, A. A. Schoonmaker, William Schoonmaker, John R. Schwartz, S. B. Schwarzwalder, Samuel Scudder, D. C. Seward, A. J. Snyder, Christopher Snyder, Dr. Frederick Snyder, Robert A. Snyder, John Spaulding, D.D.S., Ralph L. Spaulding, D.D.S., Howard R. St. John, Myron S. Teller, Terwilliger, C. E. Terwilliger, Charles R. Tiller, Hon. Frederick G. Traver, Dr. L. H. Vandenberg, John DeCamp Van Etten, William H. Van Etten, Willis A. Voorhes, Dr. Arend Yron, John F. Wadlin, F. C. Wadlin, Ira V. D. Warren, George B. Wendell, George B. Wendell, Jr., the Hon. Arthur H. Wicks, Harold L. Wood, C. H. Wooley, Reynier J. Wortendyke.

After the dinner had been enjoyed by the members and friends, president William E. Bruyn of the Ulster branch, spoke to the group in the capacity of toastmaster, thanking the various groups for their representation at the dinner and appealing to them to keep their interest sufficiently aroused to make the Holland Society more successful than it has been heretofore. He touched on the purpose of the society in perpetuating the customs of the Dutch ancestors which served as foundation for the present tide of society, pointing out that from the Dutch the example of fine living qualities was gained, and while it might be necessary to modify it somewhat for adjustment to the modern code of living, still the fine example which those first Hollanders gave to this territory should not be lost to view in the rush of civilization.

Walter M. Meserole, president of the Holland Society of New York, was the first speaker introduced by Toastmaster Bruyn. The president spoke of the early settlers of Wildwyck and their capture by the Indians, and showed how the rescue party which successfully restored the captives to their homes, also made note of the fertility and richness of the Walkkill Valley, a fact which led to the establishment of the village of New Paltz. He further traced the close relationship of the Dutch, French, Swedes, Norwegians, and Germans, and pointed out that the Dutch influence exerted more bearing on the lives of these various nationalities, because they gradually acquired the Dutch customs and characteristics. The early settlers were a success because they worked with both their heads and hands, and thus established the home as a permanent institution. The speaker brought his talk to a close with the statement that, "the basic laws of the Hollanders have since become American institutions, and it should be the purpose of such a group as the Holland Society to uphold the standards of the Dutch forbears."

The Dutch Influence

The Hon. Henry E. Ackerson Jr., of New Jersey, past president of the Holland Society and a member of the board of trustees, was the main speaker of the evening, beginning his comments by telling several stories that injected a wee bit of humor into the program. He also made mention of the fact that the name Bruyn seemed to be a popular name, sometimes for a first name and at other times it was used as a last name, "but it seemed to designate a busy people, especially because Bruyn Hasbrouck has a finger in every pie worth baking in Ulster county."

The speaker told the story of Rip Van Winkle and then applied the principle of the 20 year sleeping period to modern life, along with the significance of the Dutch influence on life today. He stated that, "20 years ago the Hollanders felt asleep economically, socially, and spiritually, and now that the people are caught in the onrush of a mechanized new era, they are slightly bewildered."

It was shown that 20 years ago the world fought for the principle of democracy and that today this struggle has narrowed down to the United States alone, democracy having met with defeat in most of the other nations of the world.

The changing times were portrayed by several incidents. The value of a high school diploma 20 years ago meant much to the public at large, as it signified quite an advanced education. Today the high school teaches the boy to knit and cook, and the girl to drive a car. "Self expression is running rampant today," said Judge Ackerson, as he told of the old custom of young folks being seen and not heard, as compared with the modern idea of being heard often but seldom seen except in the wee small hours of the morning.

Judge Ackerson brought out the point of the fine set up afforded for propaganda today because people are all too ready to listen to others and not to read and study for themselves. "Crime is on the increase and today the gangster is very often considered in the same class as the big business man."

Another point was that 20 years ago the world was entering a new realm of science, but many of these things which were new then, are now common occurrences, and yet with all these advantages the world is "birkled with civil and industrial warfare." The question of why the world was ahead mechanically but behind morally and spiritually was answered by the statement that false standards had been set up in that an attempt had been made to fashion society on man-made laws instead of the laws of God. Civilization was being viewed by many from a physical standpoint which created moods and degraded morals.

Basic Principles

The answer to all the various problems of the world which had been mentioned by the speaker was to be found, according to him, in the clinging of the world to the mind and soul of God and the adherence to the old laws and basic principles of the Dutch ancestors. "Although Rip Van Winkle went to sleep among the Dutch and woke up in a cosmopolitan community 20 years later, he found that the Dutch influence was still evident." This illustration of old Rip served the speaker as the wedge to drive home the point that although the Dutch ancestors were now only memories, their influence could still be felt in the lives of the people and "the heritage and stewardship of the Dutch should be a guide for folks today."

Judge Ackerson closed his address by stating that, "if the Holland Society can exert Dutch characteristics on the thought of Americans today, it will have justified its existence."

Other Speakers

The Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck also addressed the assembly in a brief message in which he told of the Dutch showing the way in the manner of designating their judiciary so that justice was virtually assured, and also spoke concerning the fact that those Dutch ancestors had shown the way for religious and civil liberty in this country by their sterling example of rights of living.

Other speakers included the Hon. Philip Elting, who spoke concerning the thrifty spirit of the Dutch; John DeCamp Van Etten, past president and trustee of the Holland Society; John J. Schwenk, acting mayor of the city of Kingston; Reynier J. Wortendyke, Dr. J. Wilson Poucher, William A. Dutcher, Van Hornbeck, and George B. Wendell.

The annual dinner was officially closed by William E. Bruyn, who thanked the members for their support and stated that he would expect to see them at another annual dinner.

WPA Will Curtail County Contests

Woodstock, June 21.—Workers on the Ulster County Federal Art Project, meeting with Mrs. Audrey McMahon, assistant to the federal director, in Woodstock on Friday were informed of layoffs to be effective July 15.

The local project will be affected by the state-wide curtailment of materials, administrative costs, personnel, etc., particularly with the removal of four artists from the payroll of the Ulster County Federal Art Project, whom the four were to be Mrs. McMahon did not state. She spoke to the project artists at the office of Eugene Ludin, supervisor, in a meeting called for the express purpose of discussing curtailments.

Following Mrs. McMahon's explanations, Walter Saff, as spokesman for the project workers, presented questions and protests formulated by a meeting of project workers on the day prior to her arrival. Their most important point was that all workers on the project are definitely in need of their positions. They presented a formal protest which Mrs. McMahon declared quite in order and which she said she would present to Washington project directors.

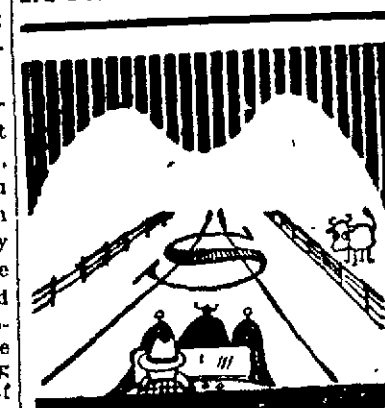

Mrs. McMahon assured her listeners that there would be no discrimination in determining personnel curtailment, but that it would be done on the basis already detailed by project administrators.

By Junius

(The Moss Feature Syndicate, Greensboro N. C.)

A man was discovered by his wife one night standing over his sleeping infant. She watched him as he stood looking down at the sleeping child, and saw his face a mixture of emotions—fear, doubt, admiration, despair, and wonder. Touched and wondering alike at this unusual parental attitude and the conflicting emotions, the wife with glowing eyes arose and slipped her arms around him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said, in a voice tremulous with tenderness.

Startled into consciousness, he started them out:

"For the life of me, I can't see how anybody can make a crib like that for three forty-nine."

Little girls used to wear summer "straws" with elastic attached beneath chubby little chins to prevent the hat from being blown away by strong winds. Well, today the larger girls, or women, are donning "straws" with the same kind of elastic band, but to the rubber appears behind the head, almost hidden beneath bonnet hair. It's just a case of styles turning, reversed in position, and as to age of the wearer.

Despite all efforts of his teachers, it seemed that young Robert had just as much chance of passing his graduation examination as a cow has of becoming a lion.

During the afternoon the mathematics examination appeared, and the first question on the paper seemed him completely.

"If one horse," it asked, "can run one mile in a minute and a half, and another horse can do the same distance in two minutes, how far would the first horse be ahead if they ran a race of two miles at their respective speeds."

Robert thought for a moment and then saw a way out.

"I regret to say," he wrote, "that it is against my principles to have anything to do with horse racing in any form."

He passed.

All Things Come Right
All things come right, and be it soon or late,
All things come right at last to compensate
For all the petty heartaches of today,
For all the little failures on our way.

For all our seeming sorrow, it appears,
Are only blessings in a mask of tears.
So if success be tardy at our call,
It is to test our courage, that is all.
So in the end each heart will seek its rest
Beside the one it always loved the best;
The darkest hour holds this brightest light—
All things come right!

"Much of the mathematics taught in the schools today is unnecessary," says one educator. He may be right, at that. The only things that seem to multiply any more are rabbits and government bureaus.

Question—Does the moon affect the tide?
Answer—No, only the untied.

To succeed himself, a man must get along with others. But let us not adopt the notion that all we need to do, to do well is not to have any trouble with those about us. One must not only "get along" but he must also occasionally get something of his own way.

Mrs. Murphy (concluding an argument)—Every time I look at you, Mrs. Patrick, I feel that I am doing the government out of the entertainment tax.

Most people are willing to give the doctor credit for their recovery, but what he would prefer is cash.

Pretty Sales Girl—Is some one taking care of you?
Man—Make me an offer.

Harold—Did you take Mildred out to dinner?
Janet—Yes. That wasn't eating—that was hoarding food.

Hollywood

Sights And Sounds

By ROBERT COONE

HOLLYWOOD—Eddie Schmidt, the tailor, died the other day but he lives in Hollywood legend as the fellow who stalked Adolphe Menjou to his first movie wardrobe. . . . Menjou was broke, needed to dress a part to get a break in pictures, and Schmidt put it on the cuff. . . . Incident in a picture suggesting Menjou's career as "best-dressed-man" in pictures.

Adolphe Menjou

Menjou says it's true. . . . But he doesn't have to bother about the best-dressed thing any more. . . . Picks and chooses when it comes to parts, and wants no two roles alike. . . . Took his latest, they say, mainly because he gets to play a trombone!

The only dirt in the film version of "Dead End" will be provided by Dave Whelgreen, an actor you won't see although he's working on the set every day. . . . Dave is the man in the hole. . . . He shovels the earth out of the excavation in the dead-end street. . . . Just part of the background action. . . . You see his shovel but you don't see him. . . .

Clean Up Play
The language of "Dead End" has been cleaned up, naturally, for screen purposes. . . . On the stage they could swear. . . . They can't on the screen. . . . But William Wyler, the director, is not heart-broken. . . . He says profanity doesn't make drama—but he does admit it's tough on a hard-boiled screen actor (like Humphrey Bogart) to be limited to "goodness gracious." . . . If Bogart says "goodness gracious" on the screen, be sure it was dubbed in. . . .

The Malibu lake district, an isolated spot in the hills 50 miles from Hollywood, has a rural grade school with a normal attendance of 15 pupils. Bobby Breen is making a picture, "Make A Wish," and Malibu lake is serving as a boys' summer camp in Maine. About 160 Hollywood boys went on location, and overnight the district could have reported a 1,000 per cent increase in school attendance. The interlopers, bringing the movie's colossal touch, took their readin' and 'ritin' outdoors, however.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, June 21—Pupils of the West Shokan and Brodhead district schools, who took the regents tests during the week at the Ashokan school, included Sarah Miller, Gladys Palen, Robert Burgher, Skippy Weldner, James Harrison, Jr.

Mrs. Charles Richter was in Kingston on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Massimo of West Shokan heights were visitors in Kingston on Saturday.

Supervisor Lemuel J. DuBois of Ashokan was a recent west side caller.

Lawrence J. Kelder was here over the week-end at his West Shokan heights country estate.

The Hunter bakery truck is making three trips a week now through this locality, servicing wholesale and retail customers.

On Thursday, Mrs. E. E. Henry, with visiting aunt, and friend, Mrs. Emma Feller, were here from Kingston on a day's outing trip during which they picked a quantity of delicious wild strawberries.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Every of Traver Hollow motored to Walden on Tuesday, where they visited the Rev. C. F. W. Ahrens and family.

Mrs. Ahrens is recovering slowly from the automobile crash in which the family group all sustained injuries some weeks ago.

Mrs. Fannie Bolc spent Friday in Kingston.

There is an unusually good crop of wild strawberries this season. They appear abundant in meadows, and along the roadside.

Miss Cornelia Davis called on Mrs. Ray Wean on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Wean is renting her attractive bungalow for the summer season.

Mrs. Edward West of Allaben assisted with the Regents examinations held at Ashokan this week.

Mrs. Addie Kelder and son, Lawrence, were noted among callers in Kingston on Friday.

Elwyn Davis was in Kingston Friday.

William Frankie, Jr. spent the week-end with his wife and relatives.

Mrs. Viola Bell formerly of West Shokan is spending a few days with her friend, Mrs. Bertha Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bishop and his brother, Robert, enjoyed a two-days' camping trip on Wittenberg mountain, along the Golden Van Benschoten memorial trail. However, most of the time the weather was quite rainy. The trip was very much enjoyed in spite of the rainy weather.

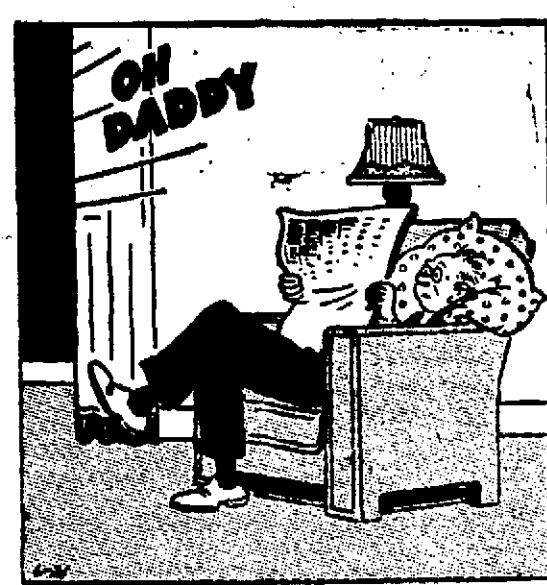

Mrs. Charles Thibault has returned home from the Ulster County Sanitarium greatly improved in health.

Miss Olive Bishop, and friend, Mrs. Rich, of Hobart, were callers here on Friday.

The Misses Katherine Wilson and Mildred Roe, popular local academic pupils of Kingston High School, were busy shoppers in town on Friday.

Morton Roe has begun harvesting his heavy hay crop, and despite the unfavorable weather conditions put in six loads on Thursday, Ray Kelder assisted.

State Building Employment Up

Albany, June 21—Employment, payrolls and man-hours for the construction industry in New York state advanced again from April to May. According to a statement issued today by Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews, employment advanced 14.6 per cent, payrolls 14.9 per cent and man-hours 16.3 per cent. These state-ments are based on the reports of approximately 1,600 contractors reporting each month to the New York State Department of Labor's Division of Statistics and Information which is under the direction of Dr. E. B. Patton.

Six hundred twenty-two of the reporting firms were working on federal, state, county or municipal projects in May and employed 23,985 workers. Of this number, 31 per cent were working for highway contractors, 27 per cent for general building contractors, 23 per cent for miscellaneous general contractors and 19 per cent for subcontractors. Payrolls amounted to $697,026 and man-hours to 781,382. Gains amounted to 22 per cent in employment, 19 per cent in payrolls and 22 per cent in man-hours. Private construction also gained. Gains amounted to 8 per cent in employment, 12 per cent in payrolls and 12 per cent in man-hours. There were 24,227 workers employed on private jobs in May with payrolls amounting to $809,514 for 808,583 hours worked.

Average weekly earnings of 48,312 workers employed in the state amounted to $31.83 in May as compared with $31.18 for 42,152 workers in April. Good gains were reported by general building contractors and sub-contractors. Increases amounted to $1.54 for employees of general building contractors and $1.36 for employees of sub-contractors. Employees of highway contractors earned $2.15 less in May than in April and less in April than in March. Average weekly hours rose from 32.4 in April to 32.9 in May. Average hours were longer for employees of general building contractors, miscellaneous general contractors and sub-contractors. Employees of highway contractors averaged two hours less per week this month than last.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

Federal Offense
Mr. Airy, N. C.—G-men were called in to solve the local post office "robbery". Records had been scattered all over the office. The G-men found a clue soon after launching their probe. A bottle of ink had been spilled, and a tell-tale mark had been left. It was the footprint of a chicken.

Peace
Berryville, Va.—War failed to come; peace reigns, especially in the animal heaven where Mrs. John Levi's hen rests today. It was Mrs. Levi's hen which laid an egg last February lettered with the alarming warning: "War-1937-June 20."

$20 Next Time
St. Matthews, N. C.—Addison Whetstone, negro farmer, is a firm believer now in kindness to animals. A year ago last spring he found a nest of field mice, fed and tamed the litter instead of killing them. When the mice left, Whetstone found a $5 bill lining the nest. Spring, 1937, and the mother mouse returned to raise another.

Wedding Belles
Wakeeney, Kas.—The "Bells of Wakeeney" have meant wedding marches to the four Hillman brothers.

The marriage of Arvilla M. Bell to Harold F. Hillman was the fourth of a Bell sister to a Hillman brother. Jessie Bell and Edgar W. Hillman started in 1927. Ula Bell and Ernest H. Hillman, Jr. were married in 1929 and Oakie Bell and Arnold Hillman in 1931.

K. H. S. Graduates At Baccalaureate

ing lies before you. You can set the pace of life high or you can set it low.

To every soul there openeth
A high way and a low:
The high soul climbs the highway,
The low soul grooves the low.
And between on the misty flats
The rest drift to and fro
To every soul there openeth
A high way and a low:
And every man decideth
Which way his soul shall go.

If you intend to follow the high way and I assume that you do, you will need self-reliance. The time will come, indeed that time may already be here when you will have to make your own way in the world. Get out of your head the idea that the world owes you a living. The sooner you learn to stand on your own feet and do things for yourself, the better. This seems to me especially important now that jobs are at a premium. Thousands of young people are pouring out of college and high school, asking: "After graduation, what?" They are all dressed up with an education and no place to go. Apparently nobody wants them. Ten years ago a certain engineering school was annually graduating classes of more than 300 men. Weeks before commencement time every man in the class was lined up for a well-paying position by some industrial concern. The supply was not large enough for the demand. But, how different today. Last June in the same school not a man in the graduating class knew on Commencement Day what he was going to do. Facing such a situation what attitude should a young man take? Should he mope around, feel sorry for himself, let dad support him or say to himself: "I refuse to be beaten. If I cannot do the thing I want to do like the thing I have to do." In a difficult day as this it is quite easy to fall into the habit of thinking that if we find the "Road Closed" sign upon the highway we were bent on taking, all roads are closed. But, there is the "Detour" sign; do you not see it? It may not be as good a road, but I never took a detour yet that did not soon or late bring me out somewhere. To be sure I am not altogether pleased when I see that "Detour," but I don't stop there, nor do I turn back. You cannot get the job you want! Then look around for the detour sign, pointing in some other direction. Follow it. This is not the only road. You have more than one ability. Develop it. I recall the story of a young man who came out of college a few years ago, well-equipped to teach, but who found the "Road Closed" sign, confronting him. He went to the office of Newton D. Baker and asked that a famous lawyer for a letter to the Canadian immigration authorities assuring them that if he were admitted into Canada he would not become a public charge. It was an unusual request and Mr. Baker inquired why he wanted to go to Canada. The lad replied that he wanted to spend the winter trap-

pling fur-bearing animals just south of that Arctic Circle. Mr. Baker asked him whether he knew the conditions of that country, that for long periods the thermometer went down to 60 degrees below zero, that none of the comforts or amenities of civilization were at hand. The questions left him unmoved. Then, Mr. Baker asked him if he had any previous experience. Yes, he had spent two winters in northern Maine as a trapper. Then with a smile, he added: "I suppose you think that I am a little crazy, do you not?" Ah, my dear young man, you are not crazy. Willing to follow a detour that leads you to fur-trapping under the Arctic Circle. You are not crazy. You are magnificently self-reliant. May your spirit stir youth everywhere now standing on the threshold of life!

In choosing your way of life, you might ask yourself. Am I selfish or selfless? Do I say: How much is there in it for me? Or how much can I put into it? Can I be concerned with what others what I can do for others? Do I believe: "To have is to hold" or "It is more blessed to give than to receive?" Between these alternatives there is a world of difference. There is one statement you ought to write in raised letters so that you will never forget it: "A gentleman is one who puts back into life more than he takes out." I am not thinking solely of service to great social causes: World peace, economic justice, political honor—causes in which you should be interested, causes into which you should throw yourself. I am thinking of the opportunity for personal service which lies at your very doorstep. Get it! Be a teacher, the essayist, once wrote an article on "The Educated Heart." He said: "Everything can be done beautifully by the educated heart. If you say only, 'Good morning,' it can be done pleasingly. You can say it with cheerful rising inflection or you can growl it out with surly downward emphasis. Why, merely to speak distinctly is a great kindness. You never have to ask, 'What did you say?' to the educated heart. On the other hand very few people ever really listen with attention. They are usually waiting for a chance to pounce upon you with their own ideas. None with an educated heart ever said: 'Now do come and hear me sometime.' The educated heart's way of putting it is apt to be, 'How about next Wednesday?' And I doubt if the educated heart is ever late for an appointment. Even in our families we fall into a routine attitude toward each other. The father upon his arrival is often greeted with great affection by the dog than by his own children. For that matter he may greet the dog with more enthusiasm than he greets his own family. At breakfast or dinner he may be so absorbed in the news of the world at large that the news of the family world becomes an annoyance. Truly, nothing is so rare as the educated heart. If you wonder why, just look at a group picture—a banquet or a class picture. What does every one of us look at first, talk about first. Ourselves! And that is the reason why most hearts are unlearned in kindness. You must learn to put yourself in the other fellow's place and think his thoughts. The educated heart does kindness with style." I tell you that no one can ever find life worth living until he has found something outside himself to stand for. My young friends, you have during these years been educating your minds. May I urge that as you commence life, you likewise educate your hearts! In your choice of your way of life, you will need to be morally serious. This land of ours is undergoing a crisis in character as never before in her history. The old-fashioned virtues of honesty and integrity are going, not to elapse, I recall reading awhile ago of an eighteen year old boy, who was a high school student about to graduate and who wrote a magazine editor, saying: "Why shouldn't I or any other ambitious boy be dishonest? As far as I can see, being honest doesn't pay. Mr. Editor, I want to make money and I want to make it while I'm still young to enjoy it. I think I can make money dishonestly a lot faster than I can make it honestly. Is there any reason why I shouldn't be dishonest or at least not too straight?" I do not know how you feel about questions like that from a high school boy; I know it disturbs me. For usually youth comes upon the scene imbued with a fine idealism. As young men and young women usually their souls are like a sword—keen, and bright, and uncompromising. Usually it is when our hair begins to gray around the temples that we let go our ideals. But, here is a youth up from the gates of dawn, asking: "Why shouldn't I be dishonest?" I tell you it disturbs me. However, on second thought why should young people not ask that question when they see the lawyer, whose reputation for greatness rests on the shipperiness with which he can guide his client through the loopholes of the law, when they see the banker who spends his time selling "phony" stock, when they see the politician using his place of public trust for personal gain, when they see the desire of so many to get something for nothing through bank-nights, the numbers racket, or race track gambling. When on all sides young people behold the slump in character, they have a perfect right to ask: "Why shouldn't I be dishonest?" What this country needs, desperately needs is a new birth of character, a new insight into the meaning of right and wrong. As J. G. Holland, the poet, has put it:

God give us men! The time demands
Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands.
Men, whom the lust of office does not kill;
Men, whom the spoils of office cannot buy;
Men, who possess opinions and a will;
Men, who have honor; men, who will not lie;
God give us men!
Dare you answer the challenge and say: "I am your man?"

Finally, in choosing the high way of life, you will have to have faith in God. In saying this, I am well aware of the fact that many young people are being reared without any religious training worthy of the name. There are 40,000,000 young people in this country under twenty-one years of age. Of that number 27,000,000 or 66 per cent are not getting any religious instruction whatsoever. Two out of every three under twenty-one, untouched by the religious program of any church—Protestant, Roman Catholic, or Jewish. If that proportion holds true here, then out of this graduating class of 300 about 200 of you do not know what the inside of a church looks like. Need we ask what are the results of this condition? Consider its effect upon morals! Can we not see a connection between these figures and the reason why America is going through a crisis in character? Consider its effect upon morale! Dr. Fosdick says that a friend of his was going to speak at a certain college. At that college a questionnaire was circulated to find out the problems which the students most wished to discuss. The most important question on the campus turned out to be: "Has life any meaning and if so, what is it?" These young people listened to everything education could tell them about life; they listened to everything science could tell them about life. But they did not listen to what religion could tell them about life. Heaven help the nation whose most privileged youth stand at the start of their lives wondering whether life has any meaning!

Your understanding of God may not be the same as mine; nor mine as yours. However, that is not the important matter. What is important is that you and I have some experience of God. Graduated from West Point back in 1925 was a cadet, named Edgar Garbisch. He was a virile, active young man. He is remembered as one of the finest football players the country has ever seen. He is remembered as the center of the last all-American football team that Walter Camp ever selected. He is remembered as the captain of a West Point team that, though it had no great number of stars, was beaten only once during the season and that by Notre Dame. But above all he is remembered as the captain of the West Point team which prayed to God before every game, not so much to win as to play cleanly. Cadet Garbisch was a young man who made religion something to live by. He once said: "Religion has always been to me a tremendous subject. Years back it worried me because I felt that it was something apart from my life in general. I could not become interested and I could not believe it a vital portion of my life. Then I began to wonder and study about the power of prayer. Presently, through prayer religion became a real thing to me. I can see that religion is of real use. And I am very happy about it." Would that faith in God were as vital, would that the resources of religion were as available to you as they were to that cadet!

What of the future? Where will you be twenty, thirty years hence? One of the most familiar tragedies of life is a good beginning and a poor ending. James Gordon Kilkey in his book, "Everyday Problems," writes: "Thousands of young people who have the finest educational advantages become in middle life a sorry disappointment." Equipped with good self-starters many there are who break down along the way. But that need not happen to you. A life that is self-reliant, life that is selfless, a life that is morally serious, a life that is under-girded with faith in God; if that is the life you choose, you will have power to see it through to the end.

Following the singing of the hymn, "Forth in Thy Name, O Lord, I Go," the Rev. Arthur G. Carroll, pastor of St. James M. E. Church pronounced the Benediction.

5 New Trustees Chosen at Woodstock Library Meeting

Woodstock, June 21—The annual meeting of the Woodstock Library Association was held in the library on Thursday evening for the reading of reports and election of trustees and officers for the year.

Five trustees were elected to serve until 1941. They are Dyrus Cook, Miss Alice Owen, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Ralph Elghmey and Mrs. Lillis Norton. One trustee, Victor Lasher, was elected to serve until 1940, in place of Mrs. Irving Brown, resigned. Towar Boggs was elected to serve until 1939 in place of C. W. Travis, resigned. Frank Merwin was elected to serve until 1938 in place of Miss Anita Smith, resigned.

The complete list of trustees now stands as follows: 1941, Dyrus Cook, Miss Alice Owen, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin, Ralph Elghmey and Mrs. Lillis Norton. 1940, Miss Isabel Doughty, Miss Elsa Kimball, W. S. Elwyn, Victor Lasher and Martin Comau. 1939, Bruno Zimm, Mrs. Julia S. Leaycraft, Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, Towar Boggs, and Mrs. George Layman. 1938, Frank Merwin, the Rev. A. Walter Baker, Mrs. Doris Flemming, George Neher and Mrs. Victor Cannon. Of the trustees the following officers were elected in the trustees' meeting which followed the general meeting: President, Martin Comau; vice president, Mrs. Carl Eric Lindin; secretary, Mrs. Julia S. Leaycraft; treasurer, W. S. Elwyn; correspondent secretary, Miss Elsa Kimball. The committee has as follows: Book, Miss Isabel Doughty; entertainment, Mrs. Besse Cohn; administration, George A. Neher; membership and publicity, Nancy Schoonmaker; fair, Miss Alice Wardwell.

Treasurer's Report
The meeting was opened by the reading of the report of the treasurer, Will S. Elwyn. The report, for May, follows:
Balance, May 1 ..... $703.55
Receipts—
Membership fees ..... 82.00
Fines ..... 2.00
Refund on convention expense ..... 8.00
Total ..... $795.55
Disbursements—
Smith's book store ..... 4.00
News Shop ..... 12.14
Post cards ..... 1.00
Salary, librarian ..... 50.00
Salary, assistant ..... 2.75
Janitor ..... 1.25
Electric light ..... 3.55
National Geographic Index ..... 1.00
Gaylord Bros (Supplies) ..... 19.05
Nature Magazine ..... 5.00
Total ..... $99.74
Balance in checking acct. $696.81
Balance in interest acct. 801.44
The total income since January 1 has been $363.63, and the disbursements $592.06.
The balance of $6,361 left in the treasury it is felt will carry the library through this year on the reduced budget now in effect. The report of the administration committee was given by the chairman, George Neher. He reported that the building is in fairly good shape, and called attention to the repainted floor and the new sign. He explained that the small sum of $1.25 for janitor expenses is because of the placement of a National Youth Administration employee as assistant in the library. This employee, paid by the administration, is Dallas Reynolds.

Book Report

Miss Isabel Doughty read the book committee report for January, 1936, to January, 1937. Of the $364.77 total spent $300.00 was allotted in the annual budget, $24.77 was left from the 1935 budget and $40.00 was from gifts for the purchase of books. In all 216 books were purchased, 160 for adults and 56 for children. Altogether, 720 books were added, some of which were gifts. The book-binding committee, which is part of the book committee, bound 106 books in that year.

Miss Doughty expressed the trustees' appreciation of the work done by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Travis on the cataloging of library books, and the hope that someone could be found to replace them. She also reported that Miss Edith Macomb has been assembling an illustration file for the art department and that Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Schrader have been attending to the miscellaneous illustration file.

In reporting for the membership committee the chairman, Mrs. Edwin Schoonmaker, announced the receipt of $5 from the Zena School Board in appreciation of the library's cooperation with the school. This information was received with pleasure by the members of the meeting for it is the first time any district school has made such a gift. Mrs. Schoonmaker reported that since January 1, the sum of $223.00 has been received from memberships.

Among the interesting facts brought out in the librarian's report are the following:
Present book stock 7,805 books
Circulation:
1934 ..... 17,500 books
1935 ..... 18,100 books
1936 ..... 18,000 books
Books added since January 1. Purchase: Adult 83; juvenile 43. Gift: Adult 184; juvenile 24. Total since January 1 is 334 books.

Books have been presented by the following authors: Mrs. Marion Bullard, Miss Frances Rogers and Miss Alice Beard, Henry Morton Robinson, Dr. James Shotwell, and Mrs. Anderson.

It costs an average of seven cents apiece to circulate the books, which is a very low rate, as the state library reports that most libraries count the cost as from eight to 20 cents apiece. Mrs. Thompson reported that a number of very good books have been presented to the library. She described the success of the 10th anniversary teas given early this year for adults and children. The two hours a week on Wednesday are proving successful as an average of 10 people come in each evening. She reported that the circulation of books by trailer into the other districts will have to be discontinued, unless some one will volunteer the services of a car and driver. Miss Florence Webster who conducted this service last year will be unable to do so this year.

Following the election of trustees the meeting was adjourned for the meeting of the trustees, who elected officers and committees.

Goshen Shooter Takes High, Celebrates at Ulster Club

Frank Storms of Goshen was high money winner in the trap-shoot held at the Ulster County Gun Club Sunday afternoon, placing first in Class A and high gun for the day with a score of 100 targets. R. K. Storms of Montgomery placed first in the 50-target yardage handicap with 45.

Arch Rose of Fallsburg, with 93 out of 100 and Young with 92 out of 100 targets finished second and third in the 16-yard event in Class A.

Will Lang of Saugerties took high money in Class B in the 16-yard target shoot with 90 out of 100, followed closely by Michael Zilinski of Brooklyn with 89 and Nathan Rose of Wurtsboro with 88 out of 100. E. B. Underhill of Poughkeepsie was second in the 50-target yardage with 44.

Ten men participated in the events. Because of the small number of shooters the money was divided into two classes, that is, the high shooters were scored as class A and the second five as class B.

Rosendale and Kyanizers Play Tuesday Night

The Kyanize Painters and Rosendale will start the City Baseball League schedule for this week Tuesday evening at the Athletic Field.

In their last skirmish, the villagers showed plenty of promise in knocking the league leading Grunewalds out of position. Their contest with the painters is expected to be a gingery affair.

Eddie Murphy will do the pitching for the Rosendalers with Paul Rask receiving. Leo Komosa and Gene Rider will be the battery for the Kyanizers.

This week's slate in the league follows:

Tuesday—Rosendale vs. Kyanize.

Wednesday—Berardis vs. Grunewalds.

Friday—Hedricks vs. Rosendale.

Ky Ebright Likes Washington Crew

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21 (AP)—They may occupy adjoining boat-houses on the east bank of the Hudson, and they may be the only west coast entries in the race, but it's more than a mere "good-neighbor" policy which makes Carroll (Ky) Ebright, California coach, pick Washington to repeat in the four-mile varsity skiffish that features tomorrow's intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta.

For one thing, to name anyone but the huskies, rowing with the same combination that swept all available stakes last year, would be flying in the face of assembled expert and betting opinion.

For another, Ebright and his sun-bronzed Golden Bears already have had one taste this season of Washington's winning wake. In the coast championships early in the spring.

Today marked the last stage in the almost unvarying routine of the camped varsity, junior varsity and freshman oarsmen of the seven competing colleges, Washington, California, Navy, which alternates as second choice for the major races with the Bears, Cornell, Syracuse, Wisconsin and Columbia.

For a week and more it's been up at 8, on the river about 10, lunch at noon, on the river in the afternoon, dinner about 6, to bed at 10, once or twice a movie. The schedule held again for today.

Tomorrow all that preparation is over, with the frosh starting their two mile race at 2 p. m., the Jayvees their three mile at 3, and the varsities their four mile test at 4 (E. S. T.).

Barmann Ladies Seeking Games

The newly organized ladies' softball team, playing under the name of the Barmanns, is seeking games with any of the female clubs in this sector. Dates may be arranged by phoning 1182.

Members of the Barmann team are Marie Ashdown, Marjorie Gersbach, Marian Parlan, Gladys Hansen, Doris Mulhare, Elizabeth Schomaker, Vincenten Amarel, Janet Bartlett, Dolores Gillen, and Marge Osterhoudt.

LOUISE MC LEOD BOUT ON THURSDAY

Mike Belloise, featherweight champion of the world, will meet Jimmy McLeod, the Tacoma Terrier, for ten rounds in the main event of the second summer show at Madison Square Garden on Thursday night. With popular prices in effect and the huge cooling system in operation another record crowd is expected to sit in for the fun. Together with the Belloise and McLeod bout, the preliminary card has some slashing battles in the line up.

TRINITY SOFTBALLERS WILL PLAY THE SOX

The Trinity M. E. softball team will play the Blue Sox at Block Park, Wednesday evening, starting at 6:30. The church battery will be Kouhoult or Donnelly and Stokes.

Lash the Greatest.

New York, June 21 (AP)—A determined little guy from Indiana, Donald R. Lash, stands out as the greatest individual performer of the intercollegiate track and field season, which ends Saturday with the dual meet at Los Angeles between the picked stars of the western and Pacific coast conferences.

Salient Facts About Big Fight

(By The Associated Press)

Principals—James J. Braddock, world's heavyweight champion, and Joe Louis, negro challenger.

Place—White Sox baseball park, Chicago.

Time—Tuesday night, June 22, between 8:30 and 9 p. m., central standard time, unless weather conditions prompt a change; preliminaries begin at 6:30; if a postponement is necessary, the bout will be held Wednesday night.

Conditions—15 rounds to a decision by referee and two judges, with "no foul" rule in force; referee to be named at moment principals enter ring.

Estimated attendance and receipts—$55,000 to 60,000 and $700,000 to $750,000 at prices ranging from $3 to $27.50; seating capacity of park reduced from 80,000 to 75,000.

Fighter's share—Braddock to receive 50 per cent of receipts, Louis 17 1/2 per cent, including radio and picture rights after deduction of federal and state taxes.

Preliminaries—Seven scheduled bouts and eight available, if schedule permits, including six-round heavyweight matches: Abe Feldman, New York, vs. Hans Haverlock, Austria; Nathan Mann, New Haven, Conn., vs. Charley Massera, Pittsburgh; Jorge Brescia, Argentina, vs. Harry Thomas, Chicago; Arturo Godoy, Chile, vs. Tony Galento, Newark, N. J.

Radio—Ringside broadcast on National (NBC) hookup.

All Calm About The Title Scrap

Chicago, June 21 (AP)—The world's heavyweight championship fight between James J. Braddock and Bomber Joe Louis, set for Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, tomorrow night, moved toward its climax with amazing calm today.

There were no arguments about the selection of a referee, no last minute legal attempts to halt the contest, no ticket speculating scandal and very little—if any—wagering on the outcome.

All the ballyhoo about Louis being sluggish in his drills and the champion being too old to retain his title against the dynamite laden fists of the 22-year-old negro have failed to stimulate, betting. The bout is liable to go down as one of the lightest-wagering affairs in ring history.

Jim If It Lasts 8, Says Bob Pastor

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., June 21 (AP)—Bob Pastor, the man who went the route with Joe Louis, thinks Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock will beat the Detroit negro in their title bout in Chicago Tuesday night—if the fight goes eight rounds.

"It's hard to tell what's going to happen in the early rounds," the young heavyweight contender remarked here today. "Either one might land a lucky blow that would mean the end of the battle."

Pastor, who has made this city his basis for operations since Louis scored a close decision over him last winter, said he expects to be back in the ring in September but didn't name his opponent.

Indians Smother Walden Nine, 18-1

The Huron Indians wielded their tomahawks effectively, Sunday at Stone Ridge, belting down the Walden A. C. by 18-1. As his club smashed three pitchers for 23 hits, Charlie Neff, driven from the mound last week, displayed top form by fanning 11 batsmen. He gave up only five hits.

In the first inning the Hurons got off to a good start with five runs. They gleaned four more in the fourth and eight in the eighth. Neff, besides pitching top ball, helped out with two doubles a pair of singles. Jason Roosa belted four one brrers. McLean, P. Neff and East hit three times for singles.

Rain Washes Out Riggs and Hunt

Chicago, June 21 (AP)—Bobby Riggs and Joe Hunt of Los Angeles played for fair weather today so they could decide the national clay courts tennis singles championship.

Heavy rainstorm washed out their attempt to end the tournament yesterday. Riggs, the defending champion, had won the first set, 6-3, and was leading in the second, 4-2. The match picked up today where it left off Sunday.

The doubles title went to John McDiarmid of Princeton University and Gene McCaulliffe of Chicago, who downed Norman Biekel and Norbert Burgess of Chicago, 3-6, 6-3, 11-13, 7-5, 6-1.

Americans Listed As the Strongest

London, June 21 (AP)—Although Bryan (Betsy) Grant was listed as a very doubtful starter, the American delegation of nearly a dozen good players and a few lesser lights, was rated as about the strongest collection of players for any one nation as the annual fortnight of tennis at Wimbledon—formerly known as the All England championships—began today.

Grant, who caught a severe cold just before leaving the United States, with his Davis-Cup teammates, remained bed-ridden. Don Budge, led the rest of the American forces into action. He was fortunate enough to draw a bye in the first round, but there's considerable doubt, however, whether Walter L. Rife, American Davis Cup captain, will let him take the risk of playing tomorrow.

Phoenicia Tossers Shellack Closio

Sunday was a harvest period for the Phoenicia baseball team in its tilt with the Closio A. C. of Kingston. The Mountaineers belted three of the Delaware avenue grocers for 23 hits, and besides took advantage of seven errors to come out on top at the end, 10-8.

Howie Fluhr on the Phoenicia mound, although touched up for 12 hits, was never in trouble, while the Closio slingers, Toddy Komosa and Slight, were easy marks for the villagers.

Hanlon, second sacker for Phoenicia, banged out a double and four singles in five times at bat. Schoolboy Bush belted a homer, single and two doubles. Fairpauer hit four times, also, for the Phoenicia brigade. T. Leskio led the Closio with three singles.

Home Leaders Take Berardis, 8-3

Sunday afternoon at Hasbrouck Park, the Home Leaders defeated the Berardi A. C. 8-3, as Toddy Uhl kept eight hits well scattered and struck out nine batsmen.

Chick and Boek twirled for the Berardis, giving up four and nine hits respectively. Joe Mahar led the Doughboy batsmen with a double and three singles for a perfect day at bat.

Manager Charlie Diers of the Bears praised the Berardi sportsman, "We saw the short of a player, and the Berardi leaned us a felder," said Diers. "I think this should not go unnoticed."

Next Sunday the Home Leaders will play Stone Ridge. They hope to avenge a setback they suffered at the hands of the Ridgers earlier in the season.

Kaplan's Win Twin-Bill Sunday

Artie Kaplan's Old Catskill Appleknockers handed Salvey's softballers of Newburgh a double setback Sunday at the Fair Grounds by scores of 4-2 and 1-1 after the latter combination had rolled up a string of 23 consecutive wins.

"Muscles" Balfe pitched the opener allowing only three hits. Balfe had a no-hit, no-run game for six innings but in the seventh he was reached for three hits and two runs.

Artie Kaplan took the mound in the second game, also giving up three hits while his mates pounded out a 13-1 win. Snedes, Schatzel and Roe had two hits apiece in the nightcap. Plough's triple was the longest hit of the day.

Will Hold Police Ball on Friday

Saugerties, June 21—The first annual ball of the Saugerties Police Department will be held in the high school auditorium on Friday evening, June 25. The proceeds will be divided between the police pension fund and the milk fund of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Chief A. W. Richter, general chairman of the ball, has announced the following committee appointments: Harold Mills, music and floor show; John Keeley, tickets; Edward Dillon, decorations. Police- man Keeley also is secretary of the general committee, with Police- man Dillon as treasurer.

Hi Henry and his Aristocrats will furnish music for the dancing. Policeman Mills is in touch with several splendid floor show acts and is determined to give the police ball patrons one of the best entertainments ever shown in Saugerties. The floor show chairman has declared only first class acts will be presented.

The entire committee has been working on an attractive program, and the result has been most satisfactory. Tickets for the affair have been printed and will be put on sale within a few days.

It is expected that 50 foreign nations will participate in the New York World's Fair of 1939, and already 22 of them have voted as a bloc to take active part in it.

The Freeman In Eight Columns

a financial success and turned the property over to S. D. Cuykendall who in turn sold to Charles Marselles, who effected a consolidation with the Kingston Journal. The Marselles regime ended in 1880 with the Cuykendall interests again achieving control and remaining in power until 1891 when the late Jay E. Klock leased the business and later acquired full control.

The first appearance of the Daily Freeman was on October 18, 1871, under the guiding influence of Horatio Fowkes. As has been noted above, the next 20 years saw the enterprise change ownership several times due to financial difficulties, but on October 28, the name of the Kingston Daily Freeman was adopted because of the uniting of the two villages of Kingston and Rondout into one city.

Another paper appearing at about the same period and published by the same interests, was the Semi-Weekly Freeman and Journal, which was discontinued on July 29, 1932, and its place taken by The Kingston Daily Freeman. Both of these papers have been published since 1911 under the banner of The Freeman Publishing Company, which was headed by the late Jay E. Klock until his death in 1936, when Mrs. Jav E. Klock assumed control as president.

Mechanical History

It has always been the object of The Freeman to keep in step with the most modern newspapers, assuring its readers the best both in news and in printing quality. In 1891 The Freeman was printed on a double cylinder Hoe press fed by two men. Two pages were printed at one time and then were reversed and run through the second time for the other two pages. Then the paper had to be folded in a separate machine. About 1894 a new Campbell Model Web press was installed which printed from a roll of paper, either four or eight pages, using stereotyped plates. This press could turn out about 10,000 copies an hour and was in use until July 3, 1911.

In 1911 it was found that the 17-year-old press was not fast enough to deliver the evening paper "in time for the dinner hour." Advertisers had originally contracted for so much space per year and each insertion was scheduled for just that amount of space, but the year 1911 brought to the front the idea of elastic space—that is, the advertisers began to use more space and it was found that the Campbell press would not print a paper large enough to accommodate this increase in advertising.

So it was that on July 1, 1911, the last paper came off the Campbell press, and on July 3, the first edition from the new Duplex Printing Press was issued. The abandonment of the old press also marked the end of display advertisements appearing on the front page.

First 16-Page Press

The new press had been ordered in January and had been delivered in May, but due to the construction work necessary to make ready the new quarters where they were taken over at this time, it was not operated until the issue of July 3 in which appeared an editorial headed, "On The New Press."

"This issue of The Freeman will be printed on the new press in our new building. As everything is new and untried, the mechanical result may possibly be unsatisfactory, but, if so, the defect will be corrected promptly. In a few days, when the new press is working perfectly, we shall tell our readers all about this wonderful machine. . . ."

The issue of July 3 was an eight-page paper which was conspicuous by the absence of the display advertising from page one. On Tuesday evening, July 11, 1911, a description of the new printing press appeared on the front page with a four column headline printed in red ink announcing, "The Freeman's New And Wonderful Printing Press." This press was described as being capable of printing seven or eight 16-page papers per second, counting and folding them in the same process, and could also, as shown by the headline, print several colors at one impression. It was termed a "mechanical marvel" with "no press in the Hudson Valley more than half as fast," and was so arranged that units could be added to make possible a 20 or 24 page edition.

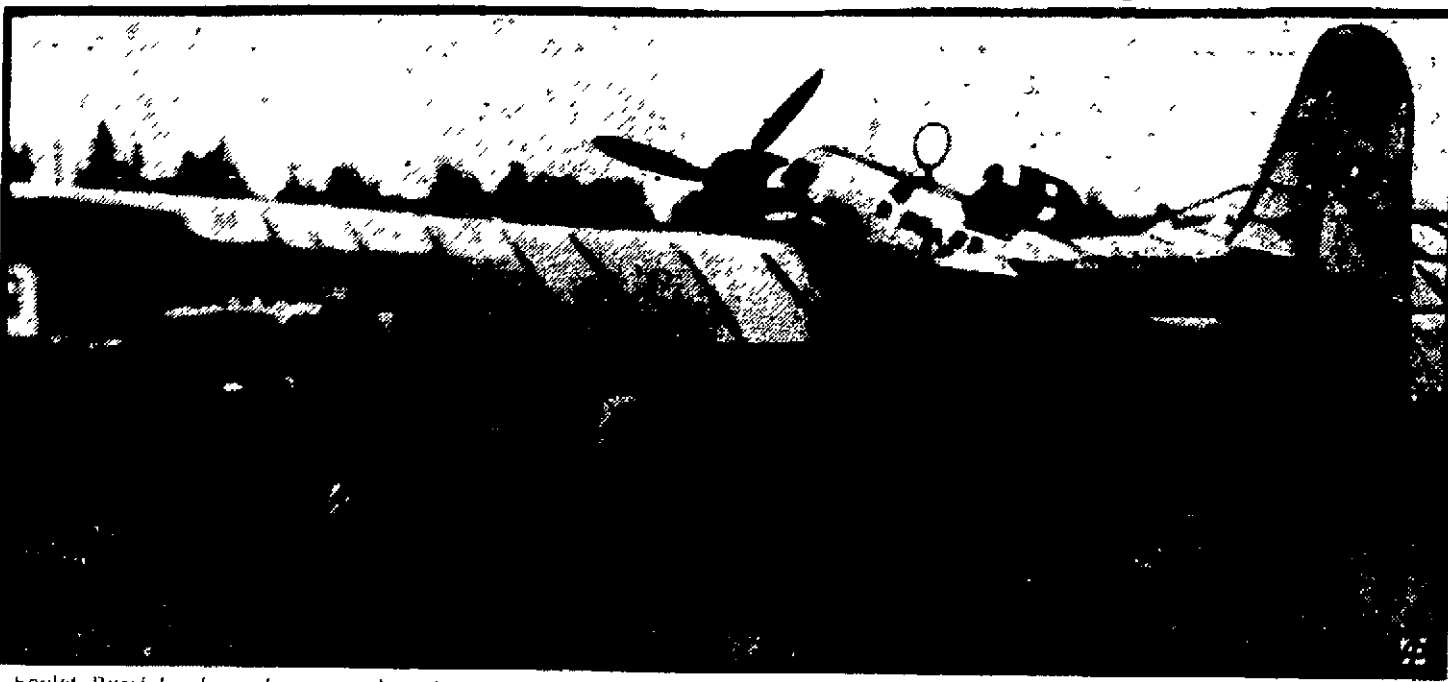

The following is an excerpt from the story commenting on this press: "The use of this press marks the beginning of a new era in the history of The Freeman. Hereafter we can handle a greatly enlarged circulation and advertising patronage. We have just added a new linotype to our equipment. There will be many new features and improvements as soon as the work and worry of moving our plant is finished."

Continued Growth

The growth of The Freeman was such that in 1923, 12 years after the advent of the new press, it was found necessary to again add to the facilities for publishing a paper, and on Friday evening, February 9, 1923, the first 32-page paper ever issued in Kingston appeared on the streets with a full page spread announcing to the public, "New Freeman Press. In New Building Turns Out First 32 Page Paper In Kingston." Another Duplex Tubular Press had been added, which made it possible to turn out a 32-page paper.

In order to accommodate the second press, the old Frank P. Quigley saloon building, adjoining The Freeman plant, had been

Bigamy Charge In Court Here

Harriet McConnell of Astoria, L. I., charged with Having Two Husbands Living—She Demanded Preliminary Examination—Other Cases in Court.

Harriet McConnell, 39, of Astoria, L. I., was arrested in New York city on Sunday by Officers Burger and Brophy on a warrant sworn out by Howard E. Mahoy of New York, charging her with bigamy. Mahoy claimed that he married her in Kingston on September 15, 1936, and that at that time she had a husband living in New York to whom she was married on June 14, 1917. The first husband's name was said to be John Degnan.

This morning both husbands were in police court when the case was called.

The wife said she would like a preliminary examination of the charge made in police court and for that purpose the date was fixed for June 29, and bail fixed at $250 by Judge Culliton.

A collision between the cars driven by Mrs. Alice C. Barnum of Jefferson Place and Albert Pross of 104 Second avenue, led to both drivers arresting the other on charges of reckless driving. The two cars collided on Broadway at Cedar street Sunday evening.

This morning a hearing in both cases was set down for July 1. Samuel Bush of Cedar street was fined $3 for public intoxication.

Louis Spardo of 11 Hasbrouck avenue, arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct on Sunday in the S. & C. Lunch on East Strand, had his case set down for Tuesday morning.

LOS ANGELES POLICE FACED WITH POSSIBLE MURDER AS BOY FINDS WOMAN'S BODY

Los Angeles, June 21 (AP)—The body of a red-haired woman lying under a house beside what appeared to be a crudely-dug grave provided police with a bizarre mystery today.

Ten-year-old Malcolm Alberts found the body when he crawled under the house yesterday to retrieve a baseball.

Detectives found what they said looked like two graves under the house. Both were about one foot in depth and five feet square. One was near the body, the other 30 feet away.

The woman—unidentified—had been dead about two months. A preliminary examination indicated she had been shot in the head after having been attacked. She was apparently middle-aged.

The body was clad in a blue kimono of expensive silk and blue house slippers.

The woman wore a wedding ring on which was inscribed: "Hail to Alice, Aug. 31, 1912."

"BORGHIA" BUG TO ADVANCE SCIENCE, DOCTORS REPORT

Denver, June 21 (AP)—Discovery of a "Borgia" bug for testing poisons was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today.

The name is "daphnia," which is not an endearment but part of the bug's scientific classification as Daphnia magna, crustacean, a marine animal. Daphnia's value lies in the fact that she cannot conceal anything.

She is entirely transparent—rates as the "transparent woman" of bugland. Poisons fed to her, or needed into one of her limbs, can be seen in action. Here they paralyze an organ, there speed another organ. Her heart can be watched.

She is very small. Part of the examination must be made under a microscope.

Her use to settle some mysterious about effects of strychnine was reported by doctors Arno Viehoever and Isadora Cohen of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science.

Scouts Head for Capital

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Thousands of Boy Scouts will head for Washington this week for a $2,000,000 camping party. Scout officials said more than 2,000 boys from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia would pitch their tents close by the Potomac by Saturday. These 62 "host troops" will meet incoming trains and buses and will help their fellow scouts find their headquarters. At least 25,000 others are expected by the time the National Scout Jamboree officially opens on June 30.

Carnival Man's Plates Cause Arrest

Gerald Weeks of Miami, Fla., who drives a truck for the carnival that played over the Washington avenue viaduct the past week, was without license plates on his truck, and evolved the brilliant idea of using pasteboard plates. The "plates" carried the following insignia, printed in large blue letters with an indelible pencil: "License Applied For."

However, the police did not believe that the new "plates" met the requirements of the state motor vehicle law and Weeks was arrested on a charge of driving a truck without having license plates attached.

Weeks deposited $5 cash bail for his appearance in police court today, while the police department held the truck, which was parked in the rear of the city hall.

When the case was called in police court Weeks failed to appear and the bail was ordered forfeited by Judge Culliton.

It was said that the reason for Weeks failing to appear was that if he did not proceed with the carnival when it left here Sunday that he would lose his job, and that he planned to purchase license plates when he had raised sufficient money and expected to return by his truck later.

STEEL AND ELAQUA IN WOODCLIFF PARK

The card of amateur boxing bouts postponed last Monday on account of rain will be held in Woodcliff Park tonight, featuring Eddie Steele, Poughkeepsie Wildman, and Phil Elaqua of Albany, one of the best 157 pounders in the Adirondack Division of the A. A. U.

Besides the Steele-Elaqua match, there will be six others featuring several Golden Gloves from New York, whose names have not been advertised.

A special invitation has been extended to all crew coaches in Poughkeepsie for the regatta to attend the bouts.
